How you may know when spectacles should first be used. If you are obliged to move small objects from the eye in order to see them distinctly. If you find it necessary to place the light between the object. If when considering a near object it appears to have a kind of mist before it. If the letters of a book run together and seem blurred or double. If the eyes are fatigued by close exercise and you are obliged to relieve them by rubbing or closing them. If black spots appear before the eyes or seem floating around them. If you find it necessary to half close the lids and hold small objects nearer the eyes than an inch. If you observe any of the above signs or signals of distress it indicates that the accommodating muscles of the eyes are no longer able to alter the shape of the lens so as to accommodate or focus rays of light coming from different distances and should claim your immediate attention. A contest with failing sight is hopeless and it is the part of wisdom to yield gracefully to the first summons of surrender.

NEW TELEPHONE FRANCHISE

Wanted to Stop the Small Boy from Celebrating—Numerous Claims Against the City.

At the meeting of the common council on Tuesday evening a franchise was granted to the American Telephone and Telegraph company to run a line into this city for the purpose of operating a toll line. As explained by City Attorney Gaynor the American Telephone and Telegraph company is a company under the jurisdiction of the Bell people that is engaged in connecting up the large cities of the country with a system of long distance service which will be superior to that of the Wisconsin Telephone company by reason of more careful construction and the use of heavier wire.

Alderman Jackson made a partial report concerning the value of the land which Joseph Arpin wished to buy from the city to extend his recently purchased residence premises on the east side. Mr. Jackson stated that in his opinion $100 would be a fair price for the land. The matter was laid over until next meeting, when it was requested that there should be a written report made of the matter.

Mayor Wheelan, as one of the committee on the construction of the new bridge, reported that the plans and specifications for same had been completed and that he had notified some thirty construction companies and that the bids would be opened on the 12th of August. In connection with this matter it was also moved that the mayor go to Madison and arrange, if possible, to borrow the money from the state for the construction of the bridge.

An ordinance was introduced prohibiting the firing of any gun, pistol, cannon, fire cracker or torpedo within the city limits. This caused considerable discussion on both sides of the question. Mr. Wheelan thought that in view of the fact that the ordinance would cut off the small boy from celebrating the Fourth in anything like American style, it was too stringent. Others thought it was just what was wanted; that the boy should be suppressed, and were in favor of passing the ordinance just as it stood. One alderman was afraid the passage of the ordinance would prevent him hunting prairie chickens within the city limits, while another was afraid it would cut him off from the pleasure of shooting his neighbor's cat, provided it chased his chickens. The matter was laid over until next meeting with the understanding that a new ordinance be drawn in the meantime with certain modifications.

City Physician Pomainville made a report on the condition of the city from a health standpoint. He stated that there were four houses on each side of the river under quarantine for scarlet fever, making a total of 16 or 17 cases of this disease within the city at this time. He stated that he had encountered some difficulty in having the quarantine regulations properly observed, owing to the fact that many of the cases were so light that often a physician was not called and the case never came to the notice of the health officer, while it served to spread the disease just the same. He was instructed to employ the city police to assist him in enforcing the quarantine.

The doctor also made a report on the water that he had had analyzed. That from the fish pond showed up fairly good from a bacteriological standpoint, but the chemical test was not satisfactory. The spring water that he sent has been examined for bacteria and found to be first class, much better than the pond water, but the chemical analysis has not been made so could not be reported upon.

Joseph Cohen then addressed the council on the matter of constructing the stone wall between the Herschleb and Kromer places, and after explaining the situation and cost of same, the council voted the sum of $200 toward constructing the wall. The cost of the part for the city will be between $300 and $400.

Mary Wendland presented a claim against the city for $5,000 for injuries received at the crossing of the Central track and the road at the south side. Claims were also presented by Albert Saeger for $500, Annie Saeger for $500 and Emil Wendland for $100, all four of the parties having been in the rig when the accident occurred. The parties claim damages because the approach to the viaduct was not properly protected by a railing. It is claimed, however, that the Wisconsin Central is responsible for the condition of the approaches to the viaduct.

Amelia Hahn also presented a bill for $1,000 for damages sustained by stepping onto a blow used by the contractors while laying the water mains. Fred Schuman presented a bill for damages to the extent of $1,000 for damage sustained by reason of a defective sidewalk on Maple street on the west side.

SEVERELY INJURED.

Miss Garrison the Victim of Runaway Accident.

Miss Viola Garrison was one of the parties in a runaway at Thorp last Friday afternoon which resulted in the breaking of one of the bones of her right ankle and the spraining of the other ankle.

Miss Viola and her sister Caroline had gone to Thorp only a few days before to visit with friends, and these two ladies in company with Mrs. L. O. Garrison and Miss Susie McCutcheon were out riding on Friday afternoon when the tongue dropped from the neckyoke, which scared the horses so that they became unmanageable and ran away.

All four occupants were thrown from the carriage and although they were shaken up considerably, Miss Viola was the only one who suffered seriously. The accident occurred five miles from town and the only conveyance that could be found was an ordinary lumber wagon belonging to a farmer living near by. The ride to town was necessarily a painful one and not calculated to improve the condition of a broken limb.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garrison got word of the accident the same day and started for Thorp on Saturday morning. Upon their arrival they found everything possible had been done for their daughter and that she was resting as easily as could be expected under the circumstances. Mr. and Mrs. Garrison and Miss Viola returned to this city on Monday afternoon and although the young lady will be laid up some time, no permanent inconvenience is anticipated.

GRAND RAPIDS WINS.

Nekoosa Beaten by a Score of Nine to Eight.

Sunday was a bad day for the Sulphite ball team of Nekoosa for they went down in defeat before the Grand Rapids nine by just one score, although they made a gallant fight for the victory.

It looked just a trifle sealy for the home boys for a time for they failed to score until the sixth inning, while in the meantime the Nekoosas had piled up four runs and it looked as if they were going to keep it up. In the sixth, however, Grand Rapids made four runs and tied the score, which imbued them with new life, and in the seventh they made three more, giving them a safe lead if nothing unforeseen happened. They held their advantage until the end and finished up on top of the heap.

The Grand Rapids team was composed of Petzold, Bandelin, McCauley, Weber, Mulroy, Differt, Glass, Bassett and Akey.

Caught a Bass.

Guy T. Dutcher, who spent a part of last summer in this city, caught a bass over at Kalamazoo last Friday that almost equals in weight anything that our local fishermen are able to tell about. The fish weighed seven pounds and two ounces. The following from a Kalamazoo paper tells all about it:

The largest small mouth bass ever caught in the waters of Michigan and perhaps in the United States, is the record catch of G. T. Dutcher at Lake View this morning. It weighed seven pounds and two ounces.

Mr. Dutcher says of his catch: "I was casting on the west shore when all of a sudden something began to run away with the boat. I concluded it was about time to do something, so I began to wind up my reel. I had a fierce struggle for 15 minutes, when I landed the monster and it nearly took my breath away. I think I will get one of the Shakespeare reels for the largest bass caught in the United States."

The question of the size to which black bass grow has been a mooted one among fishermen for many years. A New York sporting publication offers $1,000 for any small mouth bass weighing more than seven pounds and Mr. Dutcher will be entitled to this prize, as the bass he caught tipped the beam at seven pounds two ounces.

Will Shakespeare said: "There has been a great deal of discussion in regard to the size of bass. I am certain that the Lake View bass is a small mouthed one, and Mr. Dutcher will undoubtedly get the prize offered by me for catching the largest specimen of that variety." Lake View will undoubtedly be sought by Kalamazoo fishermen for the remainder of the season. Mr. Dutcher's catch will be on exhibition at Locher's sporting goods house this evening.

State Fair Attractions.

Among the special attractions at the next State Fair, in Milwaukee, Sept. 8-12, will be a genuine head-on collision between two standard railroad engines, to be driven at the time of contact, at a rate of speed, of not less than thirty miles an hour.

The engines will be manned by old engineers, respectively of the C. & N. W. and C. M. & St. Paul railroads. The act will take place in the infield, in front of the grand stand, in full view of spectators, but at a safe distance from them.

A specially interesting program will be arranged for each day. Half rates on all railroads.

A GHASTLY FIND.

BABE'S BODY FLOATING IN RIVER

Developments Show It Was Thrown There by the Father.—Other Facts of the Case.

The people of this city were startled on Saturday morning when it was reported that the body of an infant had been found floating in the river. The report was easy to verify as all who wished could see the object lying in the shallow water at the west end of the bridge.

The authorities were quickly notified and City Physician Pomainville hurried to the scene and procuring a boat removed the unsightly object.

A coroner's jury was impaneled by Justice Brown, which viewed the remains. They found the body to be that of a newly born infant, with the placenta still attached to the body. Decomposition had started, indicating that the infant had been dead for some time, although it could not be told exactly how long. This was about all that could be told at the time and in view of the meagre details an adjournment was taken by the jury until one o'clock on Monday.

During Saturday morning the investigations set on foot indicated that the child might be that of Joseph Lebrick and his wife who live on the west side. An officer went to the home of the couple and meeting Lebrick and taking him with having thrown the body into the river, he admitted that it was so, and accompanied the officer to Justice Brown's court.

Here the story he told was to the effect that his wife had been delivered of a child, a girl baby, on Thursday afternoon. That the child was dead when born. That a neighbor woman had put the child into a shoe box in order that it might be buried, and that he had gone to a livery stable to secure a rig that he might take the body to one of the cemeteries and bury it.

He stated that a neighbor boy had promised to accompany him to the cemetery, but that when the time came the boy did not show up. That he had driven as far as the west end of the bridge when his heart failed him and he turned about and drove onto a side street where he tied the horse, and taking the box went to the west end of the bridge and passing along the walk beside the brick block had dropped the box into the water and left, paying no further attention to it.

Lebrick was held as a witness before the coroner's jury which met again Monday afternoon. Here his testimony was substantially the same as given on Saturday.

Among the other witnesses that were examined were Dr. Humphrey, who had visited the woman after her sickness, Mrs. Peyrusse, who had assisted her to some extent, Joseph Peyrusse and City Physician Pomainville. While some revolting details were elicited there was nothing developed that would indicate that there had been any crime committed.

After listening to all the testimony the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the child had been born dead and Lebrick was discharged from custody. Mr. and Mrs. Lebrick came to this city from Nekoosa last June and he testified that they were married last November. He has been employed for some time past in working on the waterworks ditching about the city and stated during the inquest that he was in destitute circumstances.

Surprised their Comrade.—On Sunday Louis Wakely, who resides about ten miles south of the city in the town of Saratoga, was the victim of a surprise party which was a very enjoyable affair for those who attended. Mr. Wakely was a member of company G, 12th Wisconsin during the civil war and his 57th birthday fell on the 30th of July, and in order to properly celebrate the event Mrs. Wakely notified a number of his comrades that she would have things all ready for a time on Sunday last. The boys responded to the call and Mr. Wakely was taken so completely by surprise that he surrendered without a struggle. A very pleasant day was spent, and Mrs. Wakely sat the visitors down to a dinner that was worth going a long way to partake of. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Lyon, W. H. Getts, M. S. Pratt, D. C. Bailey, J. L. Cotey, W. H. Brown, Sam Parker, A. Eberhard, S. Ward E. A. Tennant, David Kammeran, T. T. Burr, E. H. Tichnor, J. B. Grignon and Chas. Christenson. The visitors presented Mr. Wakely with a nice easy chair and departed for home wishing that their comrade might enjoy many more birthdays of health and happiness.

Gun Club Scores.—The Grand Rapids Gun club held four events at their shooting grounds Sunday afternoon, the following being the scores: First event, 25 birds, L. M. Nash 19, J. E. Thomas 14, F. Boles 21, W. G. Scott 18, W. A. Drumb 22. Second event, 25 birds, L. M. Nash 19, J. E. Thomas 14, F. Boles 13, W. G. Scott 20, W. A. Drumb 23, F. Mosher 15. Third event, 5 pairs of doubles, L. M. Nash 5, J. E. Thomas 1, F. Boles 5, W. G. Scott 7, W. A. Drumb 5, F. Mosher 9. Fourth event, 15 birds, L. M. Nash 9, J. E. Thomas 9, F. Boles 12, W. G. Scott 12, W. A. Drumb 12, F. Mosher 12. A strictly amateur event of 10 birds was then held between Chas. Dixon, Charles Boles and W. H. Barnes. Dixon was first, Boles second with Mr. Barnes a close third. It is expected that a match will be held between Plover and Grand Rapids next Sunday.

A Poor Job.—Last Friday a young lady hired a wheel from George Krieger, the bicycle man, and after using the machine she went to one of our local second hand dealers and tried to sell the wheel for five dollars. The wheel looked to be too good for the price but the second hand man had the wheel left at his place and notified the police, and as a consequence Mr. Krieger got his property back. The young lady has not showed up for her five dollars as yet. Any person who is such a bungler as this at crookedness had better rely on honest work for their money, as they will be able to stay out of jail longer.

High Priced Oats.—Z. Nissenbaum was arrested on Thursday last for having stolen a bag of oats from the Spafford & Cole store on the east side and when brought before Justice Brown he paid a fine of $5 and costs for his misdemeanor. It seems that he drove up to the warehouse alongside the store and deliberately loaded on the oats and started to drive off when he was discovered. Oats are pretty high just now, but it doesn't pay to get caught stealing them just the same.

Discharged from Custody.—Elmer Grignon was before Justice Getts on Thursday charged with assault and battery, the complaining witness being M. B. Armstrong. The men were employed near Babcock by the wire grass company. Grignon was charged with hitting Armstrong over the eye with his fist, but as it was discovered by the testimony that Armstrong had used some pretty strong language to Grignon the jury found him not guilty and he was discharged.

Boy Run Over.—Willie Wolf, aged five years, was playing on the street in front of Steinberg's second hand store on Saturday when he was struck by a passing vehicle and run over. A physician dressed his wounds and found that no bones were broken and the boy is now nearly well again. Harry Story, who was driving the rig, was arrested for careless driving and fined $5 and costs, amounting to $11.71, which he paid.

Stole Some Clothes.—A domestic who was employed at the Witter house was brought before Justice Brown on Wednesday last on a charge of larceny. Some wearing apparel had been missed from the room of a guest and the evidence pointed to the girl. She pleaded guilty and the judge made it $10 and costs, which was paid and the prisoner discharged from custody.

Excursion to Oshkosh.—Next Sunday, August 10th, the Northwestern railway will run an excursion to Oshkosh and return. Train leaves here at 7:25 in the morning and arrives at Oshkosh at 11:45. Returning leaves Oshkosh at 6:45 p. m. Fare for round trip $1.75. This will give people who would like a trip over the new road a chance to do so at a very low rate.

Building New House.—James Chamberlain has commenced on the erection of a new house on his lots on the west side. The structure will be 34x46 and two and one half stories high and fitted with all modern conveniences, such as electric lights, furnace, water, etc. Tony Bilbayer has charge of the construction work.

Institute Closed.—The institute for teachers which was held at Howe High school during the past three weeks closed on Friday. The examination for teachers was held on Saturday, there being fifty in attendance. Superintendent Leu went to Marshfield on Monday to hold the examinations there.

A Good Lecture.—The lecture on Thursday evening by Miss Belle Kearney at the opera house was largely attended and those who went heard a very entertaining talk on the temperance question. Miss Kearney is a most accomplished speaker and her method of delivering is most engaging.

Will Hold Picnic.—The members of the German Lutheran church will hold a picnic near their church on the west side on Sunday next. Refreshments and hot dinner and supper will be served, as well as all kinds of games. A general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Akins-Siebling.—Geo. Akins and Miss Delia Siebling of Wausau were married on Tuesday last at Oak Park, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Akins arrived in this city on Thursday and will make their home here. The Tribune extends the heartiest of congratulations.

Club Shoot Sunday.—It is possible that the Marshfield gun club will be down on Sunday to hold a competitive shoot with our team, although it is not certain at this writing. It is possible that the Plover gun club may be over the same day.

Adventists Coming.—The Seventh Day Adventists will hold their annual camp meeting here again this season, the affair commencing on Thursday, August 14th and ending on the 25th. The camp will be held at the fair grounds this year.

Lost Some Jewelry.—A sneak thief entered the home of George Grignon on Saturday night and stole several diamond rings belonging to Mrs. Grignon. Up to this writing the identity of the thief has not been discovered.

GIRL WRECKS A SALOON.

A Follower of Mrs. Nation Makes Things Fly at Racine.

TO MARRY BARTENDER

Woman Falls in Love with Liquor Man and Forces Him Out of the Saloon Business.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Because she fell in love with a disciple of Carrie Nation a Milwaukee saloon keeper had his place of business wrecked by an angry woman armed with an axe.

The woman had continually asked the saloonkeeper to give up his business and go into some other kind of work. She stated that she would never become his wife until he granted her request. Yesterday she refused her request and told her that in time she would get used to having her husband in the liquor business.

Loved a Saloonkeeper.

Now the follower of Mrs. Nation really loved the saloonkeeper and wanted to become his wife, but she had her ideas of what is right and wrong and she felt that keeping a saloon is a sin against heaven and earth. When she found that her lover was determined to remain a saloonkeeper she made up her mind to act.

Last evening she went to the saloon armed with an axe and made things fly. Her lover stood behind the bar and never offered a word of remonstrance while the little woman chopped his property to pieces. She whacked and whacked until the furniture and glass was completely ruined and then turned to leave the place. Her lover ran to her side and told her that he loved her much better than he did his saloon and if she would marry him he would never go back into the liquor business. They left the wrecked saloon together.

Milton Disgusted by Mrs. Nation.

Milton, Wis., Aug. 2.—Carrie Nation, the Kansas giantess, spoke here yesterday before a large audience, despite the fact that only a three hours' notice was given of the meeting. At the conclusion of her address she dispensed a large number of hatchets among her audience.

Scores Bartender and Gets Beer.

Watertown, Wis., Aug. 2.—Carrie Nation arrived in town this afternoon and lectured to a large crowd at Turner Opera house last night. Shortly after her arrival she went to a saloon opposite her hotel, followed by a large crowd. After seeing the bartender, one in the crowd handed her a glass of beer. She took it and dashed it to the floor. After addressing the crowd she returned to the hotel, the crowd at her heels.

Miss Cecilia Stone, the prima donna of the Edison Projectoscope Company, had a narrow escape from being carried out into the bay in a rowboat with no oars. She was seated in the boat which was tied to the Chautauqua dock. The rope suddenly parted and she began to drift out. There was no one near the dock and her cries for aid were not heard. When it came time for her appearance she was missed and a searching party was organized. A steam launch, after scouring the bay, found her. She was terribly excited over her experience and it was some time before she was able to go on with her number.

STORM IN THE STATE.

Rain and Lightning Cause Heavy Property Loss in Wisconsin.

La Crosse, Wis., July 31.—[Special.]—Thousands of dollars damage was done to crops and property in Western Wisconsin and Southern Minnesota by a destructive wind, rain and electrical storm which raged for several hours last evening. Railroads, telegraph wires, were blown down. The lines of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road in Southern Minnesota and northward have suffered great damage from washouts, and no trains can be run over the North-Western tracks north and east; the tracks are useless to Norwalk. Several miles north of here a cyclone touched the earth in several places and roofs were torn from farm houses and great damage was done to property. In the north, no fatalities have been reported. Torrents of rain with the accompanying wind, did inestimable damage to growing crops, and many acres of wheat have been flooded by swollen streams.

Storm in Outagamie County.

Appleton, Wis., July 31.—A severe storm passed to the north of this city yesterday afternoon, doing great damage to crops. The rain was accompanied by hail and a severe wind. A large barn belonging to Ernest Hart of the town of Grand Chute, was struck by lightning and completely destroyed. It was filled with grain and farm machinery. Loss, $2000.

Many Places Struck at Kaukauna.

Kaukauna, Wis., July 31.—[Special.]—One of the severest electric storms which ever visited this locality raged here several hours yesterday afternoon and last evening. A heavy downpour of rain and some hail accompanied the storm. Lightning struck in half a dozen places in the city. It struck the tower of the South Side Congregational Church, damaging the bell tower, also the flashboard on Martens Brothers' store. It entered Fisher's market on Third street on the light wires, setting fire to the building two different times. A large house of Mrs. John Phillips, standing in North Kaukauna with only slight injury and the trolley wire of the International line was a literal blaze of light for an instant during the height of the storm. A barn of Farmer Jansen, near Kimberly, was struck and burned.

Winnebago County Property Destroyed.

Oshkosh, Wis., July 31.—During a severe electrical storm that struck this city and country last evening the barn of a country farm was struck by lightning and set on fire and burned to the ground. The loss will be about $2500. All the stock was saved, but a large amount of hay was burned. Several other structures were struck. Many cellars in this city were flooded by the rain.

Man Stunned by Lightning.

Marinette, Wis., July 31.—In a severe storm yesterday chimneys of two houses were destroyed by lightning and several trees were blown down in Menominee. Bird & Hicks' mill was struck and a small blaze was started. A man named Doyle was stunned by a bolt that struck his house.

Lightning Damages Fire Alarm Wires.

Green Bay, Wis., July 31.—A severe rain and thunder storm passed over this section yesterday afternoon. Great damage was done to crops. Lightning struck a telephone pole near the Jefferson school, knocking it into splinters. Fire alarm and telephone wires were cut as a result.

Family Has Narrow Escape.

Pittsville, Wis., July 31.—[Special.]—This locality was visited last evening by a heavy rain storm accompanied by lightning which caused great damage. The two-story dwelling owned by N. Arntz, railroad section foreman, was struck by lightning and badly shattered. The family of five were in one small room together and all were badly shocked, one boy, five years old, having the skin burned completely off his back and limbs. He will probably die.

Hail Does Great Damage.

Van Cliffe, Wis., July 31.—[Special.]—A hail wind and rain storm swept from the southwest direction through the western part of Van Cliffe county yesterday afternoon, doing heavy damage to farms. The loss will reach thousands of dollars. Most of the damage in this county seems to have been in the township of Pleasant Valley, where standing grain was flattened. One farmer reports acres of matatoes stripped of tops by the hail, and his sugar cane stripped of the leaves. Windows of houses were smashed.

Former's Heavy Loss.

Green Bay, Wis., July 31.—[Special.]—The large barn of Homer Mowbray, in the town of Ashwaubenon, was struck by lightning yesterday afternoon and burned to the ground, causing a loss of $3000 with small insurance. The neighbors and members of the farmer's family tried to extinguish the fire, but their efforts were vain.

EFFORT TO SECURE VAN DUSEN'S PARDON.

Waukesha Man Has Served Six Years of an Eleven-Year Sentence for Burglary.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—A petition for a pardon for William Van Dusen, who was sentenced to state prison from Waukesha October 2, 1896, for a term of eleven years for burglary, was heard by Gov. La Follette yesterday afternoon. Attorney A. J. Papp made the appeal, arguing that Van Dusen has already served six years of the sentence, and sufficient grounds for the pardon that his wife and two children are in destitute circumstances, though he took but a small part in the crime, he received the greatest punishment of the four men arrested, and that the chief offender, one Louis Otto, who confessed and pleaded guilty, was pardoned three years ago. Van Dusen is 30 years old. The petition for the pardon is signed by a large number of persons who were old neighbors of Van Dusen and who are familiar with the circumstances surrounding the crime.

MILITARY COMPANIES GO OUT CAMPING.

The Red Guards of Manitowoc and the Two Rivers Rifles Encamped at Shoto.

Two Rivers, Wis., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The Red Guards of Manitowoc and the Two Rivers Rifles of this city have arranged to go into camp for a week's outing and pleasure. They will go into camp near Shoto, this country, and on Sunday, August 17, will give a picnic and drill at Shoto, in Gedling's park. Considerable crawling is again being conducted in the rivers here, notwithstanding the efforts of the local sportsmen to stop it, as it is found that by catching the crawfish the natural food for fishes is lost and causes them to leave these streams.

Mrs. Harry Gorman entertained at a buffet luncheon in honor of her guests, Mrs. Charles Jaeger and Miss Mina Mohr of Portage.

The school census has just been completed by the city clerk and shows that there are a total of 3222 children of school age, of which 739 are males and 2483 females. The population of the city, computed on this basis, is 4566.

FEAR KENOSHA BOY HAS BEEN KIDNAPED.

Ten-Year-Old Jimmie Davis Disappears While Walking in Northern Part of Lake County, Ill.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The disappearance of Jimmie Davis, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis of Kenosha, Wis., while he was walking from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Truesdell in Lake County, Ill., leads to the belief that he may have been kidnaped. Last week the parents gave the boy permission to visit the Truesdells home and he walked the distance of six miles. He started to walk back on Saturday. Not until Tuesday did the parents begin to look into the matter, believing all of the time that he was at the Truesdell home. When they learned that he had left several days before inquiry was made all over the township, but as yet no clue to the boy's whereabouts has been obtained. The last seen of him he was walking along the highway going north.

DID NOT DEPRIVE HIS MOTHER OF HER HOME.

John M. Driver Buys Property in Order to Carry Out Provisions of Father's Will.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The report that John M. Driver of Racine had deprived his mother, Mrs. Thomas Driver, of her old homestead by outbidding her at an auction sale is untrue. Mrs. Driver has not made the residence her home for some years and the property has for a long time been rented and the rental money paid to Charles R. Gardner, receiver. In his last will Mr. Driver directed that his executors and sons, John and Sinclair Driver, should maintain the cemetery lot and make other payments out of the proceeds of the sale of the property and Mr. Driver bid in the property in order that sufficient money might be secured for these purposes. Mrs. Driver is residing with her daughter in Chicago.

Miss Ellen Stone arrived here this morning and at 4 o'clock this afternoon delivered her address on her capture by the brigands. Over 5000 people heard her. There were excursions from many of the surrounding cities. The assembly promises to be a greater success than ever this year.

A tragic accident was narrowly averted on the grounds last night. Fred Bougie, an electrician, while handling an arc lamp, forgot to turn off the switch and received a terrible shock. He was thrown to the ground and was unconscious for ten minutes. Physicians worked over him for some time before reviving him, as he was black in the face. The accident was witnessed by hundreds of people and caused great excitement.

Miss Bertha Ridesel of Battle Creek, Ind., and William Dickinson of Chicago were out sailing, and while in the middle of the lake a squall struck the boat and overturned it.

The young people clung to the mast and Mr. Dickinson lashed Miss Ridesel's wrists to the mast so that she would not sink.

Their cries attracted the attention of people on the shore and assistance was at once sent. Both of the young people were exhausted when help arrived.

Miss Ridesel is well known in Milwaukee, where she has visited on several occasions. She is a member of the Alpha Phi sorority. She graduated from the university last spring. Mr. Dickinson is a Princeton student, 24 years of age.

Married Last April.

Dr. R. W. Buttruff and Miss Byrdie Peeso, were married at Ironwood, Mich., last April. Their friends have surmised such to be the case since Doc's mysterious trip up to Ashland, at that time, but no one seemed willing to confirm the suspicion, hence we could only hint at what we believed to be the truth.

The Dr. and his bride are now in South Dakota, spending a few weeks in the vicinity of his homestead, after which they will return to Merrill to reside.

The bride a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Peeso, is well known here from having been a resident of Merrill for the past three years or more until last spring when she went to Ashland with her mother. She is a worthy young lady.

The groom is a dentist by profession and a member of the firm Peeso & Buttruff, and is an energetic exemplary young man.—Merrill Star.

John Biring Dead.

John Sebastian Biring, who spent several years of his life in this city, died at Merrill on Saturday, August 2, from the effects of a tumor in his stomach. He was 69 years of age. The funeral was held in this city on Tuesday from the Catholic church, Rev. F. Van Roosmalen officiating.

Besides his wife, he leaves seven children, they being Mrs. P. H. Jacobus of Marshfield, Mrs. J. N. West of Mountain View, Canada, Geo. Biring of Chicago, John Biring of Merrill, Mrs. Wm. Meinecke of Janesville, Mrs. Wm. Compton and Mrs. Milton Mosher of this city. All of his children were present at the funeral except Mrs. J. F. West and George Biring.

Mr. Biring was born in Scholastadt, Germany, and came to America forty years ago. Being satisfied with the country he went back to Germany and got his wife and family and brought them to this country and located at Stevens Point. He came to Grand Rapids in 1887.

Last year he went back to Germany to visit his relatives, having three sisters and a brother still living there. Upon returning here he went to reside with his son John at Merrill, where he resided until his death. He was first taken sick while in Germany and has been more or less ill since then until his death.

Is it any wonder our courts are sometimes looked upon with suspicion, when such blots upon the name of justice are being enacted every day! The hated injunction is continuing in its dastardly work and is growing bolder and more cruel every day. But last week Judge Jackson, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, issued an injunction restraining striking miners from holding meetings or appealing to non-union miners to quit the employ of the mine owners. For violating this ban on free speech several miners were imprisoned. And now comes Judge Keller, of Charleston, West Virginia, with an order restraining friends of union labor from supplying the striking coal miners with food or other supplies, even though they be starving. Violation of this injunction is punishable by imprisonment and fine. The apparent object of this order is to starve the striking miners into submission. With the court in league with the coal corporations the miners would be reduced to a condition of serfdom. And yet they tell us the courts are sacred and above suspicion of wrong doing or error.

The census returns show that the men over 20 years of age are greatly in the majority when compared with women of the same class. The unmarried men in the whole United States number 6,726,779, the unmarmen being 2,531,333; which is quite a bunch for the ladies to select from.

The figures for Wisconsin alone are as follows: Men, 181,398; women, 102,396; excess 79,002. There are more single men than women in every state but the majorities are largest in the western states. The greatest inequality ex-ian with the Lincoln Light and Power Co., Lincoln, Ill., says: "I am occasionally troubled with severe headaches, the result of constipation and have at numerous times used Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup, which I think is the most satisfactory in its results of any medicine. It moves the bowels naturally and promptly without pain or griping, and certainly cures the headache caused by constipation. We always give it to our children to regulate and correct any bowel troubles." Sold by Sam

MARRIED BUT NOT MATED

By "RITA."

CHAPTER XXIV.

"And now, my dear fellow," said Col. Dunbar to his friend some days after these events, "there's no reason why you two good people shouldn't be happy at last. Mrs. Marsden is terribly ill and shaken after all she has undergone, but I think the best medicine she can have is the medicine you bring with your own presence. How is it you have not been near her since the day of her acquittal?"

Ivor was sitting by the table in his dreary lodgings. Col. Dunbar had come to pay him a farewell visit, for on the morrow he and his wife and Beryl Marsden were to leave London for the Abbey, and his purpose in coming to see Ivor had been to persuade him to join them at Vaux the following week.

"Dunbar," he said, hoarsely, "do you forget who I am—a nameless, homeless, fortuneless man, with nothing in all this wide world to call his own?"

"I beg your pardon," interposed Col. Dunbar, hastily. "Nothing? Do you call a woman's pure trust and love nothing? Do you call friendship nothing? Do you call life, health, strength nothing? Come, come, Ivor, be a sensible man. You have suffered a great deal, and so has she. Don't go running your head against a stone wall of obstinacy and pride. You, lost the Court, by an accident; Beryl Marsden gained it in like manner. As for the flaw in your birthright, that is no fault of yours, nor do I think that Beryl Marsden is the woman to care for it. But you should think twice before you break her heart. Surely she has borne enough!"

Ivor bent his head on his hands and groaned aloud.

"Say you will come," persisted Col. Dunbar.

Ivor shook his head.

"I have kept my word—I have avenged her," he said, slowly. "But what right have I to trouble her any longer? She is free now; she may be happy in time. I cannot bring my shamed life across her path again."

"Then you will excuse my plain speaking, but you are a fool!" said Col. Dunbar, rising to his feet in irrepressible indignation. "Good heavens, man! what is the use of splitting straws in this fashion? You are in love with each other; you have fought the hardest battle that is given men and women to fight in this world, and have come out of it nobly, and now you willfully turn your back on happiness."

"You—you can't understand," muttered Ivor.

"No, I'm glad to say I can't," said the Colonel, ironically. "And what's more, I don't wish to. I'm disappointed in you, Ivor, I really am. I thought you were a sensible man, and not the sort of fellow one reads of in novels and romances—women's novels, I should say—unsettling everything by some confounded hush about principles and honor being worth all the love and happiness standing ready at their hand. Madge will never forgive you; as for Beryl—"

"Has she—has she spoken about me?" asked Ivor, falteringly.

"No—no, I believe not," answered Col. Dunbar, rebelliously. "But all the same, Madge says she's dying for a word from you, and Madge knows—she's sharp enough."

"When she needs me, or wishes for me, I will come to her," said Ivor, slowly. "But I cannot force myself upon her notice now, and she—she would only despise me if I did."

"Well, I wash my hands of the whole affair," said Col. Dunbar, pettishly. "If you choose to make yourself voluntarily miserable, that's your affair. I suppose you'll be going out to Mexico again, or Afghanistan, or Egypt, and doing your utmost to jeopardize your life by way of breaking her heart, and proving your love. That's about your sort, isn't it?"

Ivor smiled sadly. "Heaven knows I would not add to her unhappiness by word or deed," he said, gravely; "but in my place, Dunbar, you would see as I do, that to put forward any past claim upon her memory now would be little short of insult."

"Then you won't come?"

It was such a white face, and such a sad face, that looked up at Col. Dunbar in that moment, that it shook his self-control to its very center, showing him in one brief second what unexplored depths of agony might lurk in that tried and sorrowing soul of his friend.

"Ivor, my dear fellow, don't look like that—don't sacrifice yourself for a shadow!" he pleaded again.

But Ivor only shook his head, and Col. Dunbar went out from his presence with a clouded brow and a very heavy heart.

"I must talk it over with Madge," he said. "I fear I've only made matters worse."

It was two days later—Ivor was sitting in the same room when a call drew up to his lodgings, and a lady alighted and was ushered into his presence—the lady was Madge Dunbar.

He started to his feet when he saw her; but the question he would have put was stayed on his lips by something he saw in her face.

"No," she said, answering that unspoken demand, "we are not at Vaux. We could not go. Beryl is very ill."

His face blanched. The hand pressed on the table by which he leaned trembled convulsively.

"Beryl?" he said. "Not dangerously?"

"Yes," answered Madge, abruptly. "Otherwise I should not be here. She is just fading away, day by day she gets weaker and weaker. Nothing rouses her. Nothing interests her! It is heart-breaking to see her. I thought I would come and tell you. I—I know all that has been between you, and I know that her love for you is costing her her life. I call it cruel—unnatural—to behave as you are doing. Not once have you sent word or sign since that day in the prison. And the adieu of that terrible time is still upon her, she can never forget it, and she thinks her name is blasted forever. Nothing will ever induce her to go to Grant-ham Court or touch the money, and I suppose when she dies the place will be

"Oh, how glad I am!" she cried. "But, Ivor, why did you not tell me before? Why did you still pretend the Court was empty?"

"I felt I could not bear to live there without you," he said gently. "And so I placed my fate in your hands. It is worth more than fame or fortune. Beryl, to know that only for his own sake do you love 'My Lord Conch'!"

"Ah!" she cried with the old, bright, gleaming blue, "don't remind me of that. It was so foolish, so untrue, so—"

(The end.)

FAMOUS LONDON TAVERN TO GO

Simpson's Old Restaurant to Be Replaced by a Modern Structure.

Simpson's a famous eating place of London, that has been in existence since 1828, is doomed to extinction. For years it has been the resort of literary and musical celebrities who enjoyed the old-fashioned English dinner served in quaint style.

It is said that the restaurant is to be rebuilt with many improvements, but old-timers fear that the name is all that will remain. Hosts of memories are connected with this old inn, and the reminiscences of its head waiter, Flowerdew, would prove a most interesting historical record of London during the last quarter of a century.

Simpson's was on the Strand and was old-fashioned in all its fittings and furnishings. There were great round mahogany tables, roomy chairs upholstered in horsehair, and a floor of colored tiles, with growing trees in tubs. Signs on the wall announced that a dinner "from the joint" would be served for 2s 6d and a fish dinner for 2s 4d, the latter a very popular meal with the public, being served from noon until 8:30 o'clock.

One side of the eating room was divided off into little private boxes, curtained from brass rods. A huge dumb waiter occupied the center of the room and was always piled high with massive old glassware and silver. On the walls were painted panels of fish and game, grown dim with age. The bar opened into this room from a great window, and two high candelabra flanked it on either side as though it were an altar.

The old custom of serving the roasts was always preserved at Simpson's. Tables on wheels bearing great joints of beef and mutton on silver covers were pushed about from customer to customer, the carvers, dressed in white, cutting off the particular slices designated by the diner.

A woman's dining room was up stairs, and here the picturesque Flowerdew presided. Rooms for playing chess were on the upper floors, while the "Knights of the Round Table" had a club room there with a collection of playbills and prints. Each week they dined in old-fashioned English style from the historic mahogany tables.

LARGER FAMILIES.

A Warning to American Women from Brigham Young's Daughter.

Mrs. Susan Young Gates, of Utah, speaking before the National Council of Women in Carroll Institute, Washington, made some very pertinent remarks on this subject, although under a different heading. It is a national question, and one which demands attention from every intelligent woman.

It is a matter of regret that the descendants of the old Pilgrim Fathers are by no means living up to the example set by their forefathers. The tendency nowadays is for the families of native-born Americans to be noticeably small, whereas the families of foreigners are conspicuously large. In some parts of rural New England the schools are half empty, and among the pupils the children of foreigners predominate so largely as to form a serious menace to American nationality.

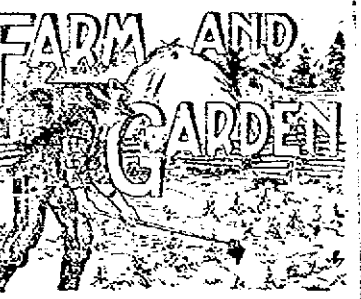

The old Knickerbocker families of New York were celebrated for their vigor and intelligence, and wherever these are found they are leaders now. But, alas! how few are to be found! Large families are now sneered at, and young girls are taught before marriage that a large family is a burden and care not only to its parents, but to the country at large.

The history of womanhood, as modern as you may find it, demonstrates that large families are productive of health, equality and relatively ideal conditions, both mentally, morally and physically. We talk of leaving our impress upon humanity. Let us leave ourselves to our posterity.

The remedy lies in the removal of the cause. Let wise counsel be given by mothers to their daughters, teaching them that it is a woman's first duty to bear children who will be a pride and a joy to her, and cause her to be held in high honor and respect.

The Seagull a Fish Pirate.

The growing sentiment for the protection of bird life, a corresponding should not be endangered by wrong direction. The appeal for the sea gull, for instance, is one that must ultimately fail for sound reasons. Beautiful as he is, and attractive as his evolutions are about the bridges, he is a noted fish pirate, and when the long delayed but inevitable legislation comes for the scientific protection of our coast fishing industry the gull will be marked as an enemy. At a certain stage of the life of the gull, for instance, the baby fish floats helplessly on the surface of the water, and a single gull is quite capable of disposing of a hundred turbot in a day. Even an alderman who could do such a thing would be legislated out of existence—much more a sea gull—and the woman who wears an opera cloak made of the pure slate and white wings is helping to keep down the price of fish.—London Chronicle.

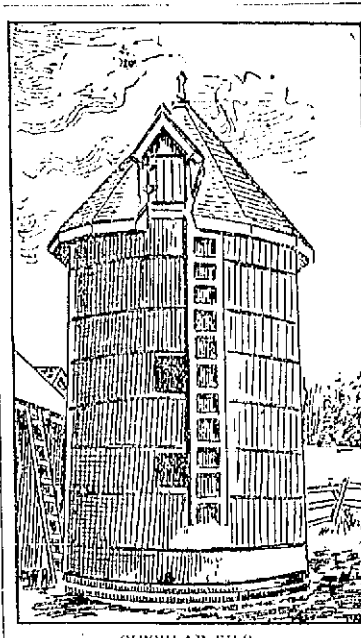

FARM AND GARDEN

Circular Form of Silo.

The consensus of opinion of those who have studied the silo problem indicates that the circular form is preferable. There are, however, many square and rectangular silos in successful operation. Especially is this the case with those having rounded corners. Where great strength and large capacity are demanded the frame circular silo will best meet the requirements. This form of silo can be made quite durable by plastering the inside with cement. The circular stave silo, owing to its simplicity and economical construction, seems to fully meet the requirements of the farmer. With the form of silo properly erected the waste of silage is reduced to the minimum.

Hoops for the silo can be made of any suitable material, such as half inch, seven-sixteenths inch or five-eighths inch round iron, one-eighth inch flat iron two inches wide or wire. The wire fence hoop is often used since it is regarded as being very economical. Doors may be simply sawed out, or made continuous from the bottom to the top of the silo. The sawed out doors may be ranged one above the other, with a stationary ladder placed alongside running to the top of the silo, as shown in the cut.

When the silo is built on the outside of the barn, a roof is needed. This may be simply a shed roof constructed with plank, or a neat, inexpensive shingle roof, as shown in the cut.

A Suitable Dust Bath.

All chickens seem to thoroughly enjoy a dust bath, and its use undoubtedly is a benefit to their plumage, besides ridding them of lice. If the plumage is to be kept clean and bright, especially on birds intended for exhibition purposes or of white varieties, it is essential that the dusting place be kept absolutely dry, as otherwise it will soil the plumage and the fine bird on which you may pride yourself will look very dingy.

The roofed box in the sketch will give an idea of how birds may be provided with a dry dust bath in nearly all kinds of weather. Cloths may be tacked across the top ends, with hooks at bottom for stormy weather, if the box is in a field. Some poultry raisers allow their fowls the liberty of the sheds where the farm machinery is housed and here they get a fine dusting in all sorts of weather, but if the birds roost on them it does not improve their looks nor the working of the farm implements. Better keep them out, and assign them quarters more fitting. The cost of cleaning machinery of hen manure on some farms would build palatial abodes for the hens and make them a profitable part of the farm.—John G. Knott, in Farm and Home.

To Make Hens Lay.

When hens do not lay in summer, the fault may be due to overfeeding, owing to the abundance of insects, grass and seeds on the range or pasture. It is better to send such hens to market if they are over two years old, and depend upon the early hatched pullets as winter layers. All pullets that are to be retained should be kept in good growing condition, not fat, by allowing a variety of food, meat being much better than corn or wheat for all kinds of young poultry.

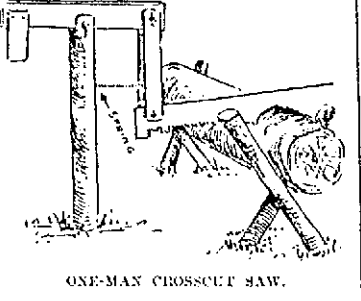

Feeding Grain to Steers.

Feeding grain to steers on grass is justified when pastures are short and where these cannot be supplemented with some kind of fodder. Where steers are partly warmed up with grain before being turned to grass it may prove an excellent practice to continue feeding them about one peck per day. By following this practice the animals may be kept going from the first day. Such animals may be marketed earlier than those that are grass fed alone and invariably will command a little higher price. It is generally advisable to grind corn for grass fed steers. Animals on grass alone frequently lose weight during the first weeks after being turned out, so that the time required to make this up is entirely lost. When grain is fed it is a good plan to feed a little roughage, such as timothy or clover hay, during the first week after turning to grass in order to prevent scouring.—Iowa Homestead.

A One-Man Saw.

A crosscut saw will get through a great deal more wood with a given amount of muscle than any other hand device. With this rocking walking beam attachment and its weighted and swinging pendulums, one man can easily manage the saw. The post, as shown in the cut, should be about eight feet high to admit of having a pendulum sufficiently long to give the required length of stroke. The weight on the outer pendulum should be just sufficient to prevent the saw from riding. The spring from main post to the saw should be strong enough to help the sawyer on the return stroke. A stout cord running over a pulley with a weight attached may take the place of the spring. A stiff wire with a hook in the lower end answers very well in place of the wooden pendulum shown in the cut. When it is adjusted just right the walking beam will see-saw easily, as it follows the motion of the saw.—John Jackson, in Agricultural Epitomist.

Aids to Whitewashing.

The use of the fruit-spraying pumps makes easy the task of whitewashing stables, henhouses and cellars, and it is much more effective than the use of the brush, because by making the stream a little larger and more forcible, which most spraying nozzles admit of, a stream can be sent into cracks and crevices where the brush would not reach. It may not prove as penetrating or as powerful a disinfectant as the gas from burning sulphur and charcoal, but it takes next rank, and can be used where it might not be well to use the sulphuric acid gas, as in cellars under living rooms. If it is to be used as a disinfectant, or as an insect destroyer, the addition of a little carbolic acid or a little dissolved copperas to the whitewash may be an advantage, and we prefer the latter, at least in cow stables, because it emits no offensive odor. Let the lime be thoroughly slaked, and strained through a cloth, so that it may be thin enough to work well in the nozzle. And siles, ceilings, corners and floors can be well sprayed in one-fourth the time needed for the use of the brush. Applied during the hot weather, it does not take long to dry, and two coats can easily be given if one does not look thick enough when dried.—New England Homestead.

Handy Hay Derrick.

W. A. Clearweather, of Indiana, sends Iowa Homestead a sketch of a derrick which he has found very handy for building stacks out in the field. The runners are made out of 2x12 stuff fourteen feet long, the center cross piece 3x8, and the outside cross pieces 2x8, all let in as shown in the illustration. The four braces are made of 4x4 stuff. The post may be either round or be ten feet high. The pole "a" should square and should be about thirty feet long, so as to make a good-sized stack. It should be made of pretty good timber. Whiteoak is good and seasoned red elm is also very good for this purpose. Have the blacksmith make a fork like that seen at "b" to fasten on the top of the post upon which the pole revolves. An old buggy spindle is a very good thing for putting on this piece. The illustration shows the location of pulleys and the method of adjusting the pole for stacking. In stacking set the derrick to the windward of the stack.

Value of Ensilage.

Ensilage is not only the cheapest of all cattle foods, but a supply in winter prevents a complete change from green to dry food. A change means loss of milk, unless some excellent food, such as ensilage of roots, is allowed in addition to hay and grain. Some cows fall off in milk when put on dry food and do not regain in yield until the next spring. Regulating the milk supply by regulating the food and its quality requires a study of both summer and winter conditions.

Feed Green Corn.

One of our best dairymen in an address before a farmers' institute said that during the summer, his pastures getting short and having no soiling crop, he commenced cutting off and feeding his milk cows his corn. He kept a close account and found it paid. This shows the importance of feeding well at all times if the flow of milk is to be maintained and that it can be done profitably and a good product obtained.

RUN AWAY FROM DANGER.

Inhabitants of Los Alamos Flew to Place of Safety.

MANY PANIC-STRICKEN.

Landslides in Surrounding Hills Do Great Damage—Oil Wells Appear to Have Escaped Injury.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Aug. 1.—Many of the inhabitants of the town of Los Alamos, which has been the center of seismic disturbances since last Sunday, have left for places outside of the earthquake region. The town of Los Alamos is situated about midway between Santa Ynez and Santa Maria in the long narrow valley of Los Alamos, fifteen miles from the coast. The Los Alamos valley is from one-half to one mile wide. The population of the valley is about 800. The damage thus far is limited to the ruin of plaster, the collapse of chimneys, the breaking of crockery and glassware, the falling of the walls of the Presbyterian Church and several store buildings and the demolishing of an old adobe building, which was seriously damaged with the first quake on Sunday night. Not a building escaped some injury and it is considered miraculous that no one was hurt.

Fire Caused by Overturned Lamp.

Los Alamos, Cal., Aug. 1.—Although no more severe earthquake shocks have been experienced here since 7:30 last night, the people are panic-stricken. Dr. H. C. Bagby of Santa Maria, who was a guest at the home of D. P. Whitney, undoubtedly saved the business section of the town from a serious fire. When the earthquake occurred a lamp was upset and set fire to the place. Without a thought for his own safety Dr. Bagby rushed upstairs and found Mrs. Whitney vainly fighting the flames and seemingly surrounded by them. Drawing her from her place of danger he bent out the fire with blankets and thus saved a life and a large portion of the business section.

Great Landslide.

Parties from Lompoc and outlying districts have reached Los Alamos with stories of havoc in the hills. A great landslide carrying down hundreds of tons of earth occurred near the Hoover ranch. The road from Lompoc was buried for fifty feet. Huge boulders were sent thundering down the valleys.

John L. Drum, a mountain farmer, reports a devastating landslide in the Drinn canyon. The landslide is described as the most terrifying shock he ever heard. The oil wells around the town of Los Alamos seem not to have suffered.

Due to Subterranean Gases.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—John H. Conway, who has made a life study of the geology of this country, believes that the disturbances are in no way due to volcanic activity, but occasioned by local conditions. His theory is that the earthquakes are occasioned by subterranean gases and oils, which the region is known to abound. It has been known for years that gas was being generated beneath the earth's surface in the vicinity of Los Alamos.

For many years there has been a small, active volcano on the Los Alamos side of the mountain which lies between that place and Santa Barbara. Smoke and steam constantly issue from various fissures along the summit of a plateau or shelf near the northern slope of the mountain. Viewed from the distance of the old stage route, these manifestations appear like small camp fires. They have never developed any alarming tendencies and have attracted very little direct investigation.

Flood Situation Improved.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 1.—No heavy rains fell in Texas yesterday and as a result the situation is vastly improved. The situation is vastly improved. The situation is vastly improved.

Many people spent the night in tree tops around Quinlan Tuesday night and were rescued the following morning with boats brought from Greenville and Paris for that purpose. The water was still over the Texas Midland tracks at Quinlan last night, but no lives were lost there.

Rivers are falling everywhere except in the extreme southern part of the state, where the flood is being augmented by small tributaries.

RAILROAD ASSESSMENT.

Companies Operating in Iowa Must Stand a Heavy Increase in the Amount of Their Taxes.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 1.—The executive council has increased the railroad assessment of Iowa $1,011,556, making a total of $51,112,814. The increase on the North-Western railroad is $1,100,354, that on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul is $900,862, and that on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy is $665,457.

The Burlington, the Chicago Great Western, the Rock Island, the Omaha & St. Louis and the Illinois Central all are increased, the amounts ranging from $225,000 to $200,000.

The assessment of the telephone, telephone and express companies' property also shows a substantial increase.

The railroad alone will be obliged under the new assessment to pay in taxes approximately $121,245 more than last year. The state levy was fixed by the council at 3 1/2 mills.

DEFICIT FOR JULY.

Due to Repeal of War Taxes and Payment of War Claims of Several States.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—There was a deficit of $7,898,000 for the month just ended, but this caused no alarm at the treasury, because it was fully expected. The deficit is due to the repeal of the war revenue and the heavy disbursements made at the beginning of each fiscal year for interest charges and extraordinary disbursements to pay the war claims of several states. These claims alone amounted to more than $3,000,000 and accounts for nearly half the amount of the deficit. The receipts for the month were $9,305,691, and the disbursements $25,193,691.

It is estimated there will be a falling off of about $70,000,000 in the internal revenue receipts during the present year. With this tremendous reduction in receipts Uncle Sam will have no difficulty meeting his obligations, as he has on hand an available cash balance of $203,567,112. In addition to this there is in the treasury $150,000,000 in the gold reserve, and $811,955,089 in the trust fund.

PITTSVILLE.

[From the Pilot.]

A young daughter of John Raab was shot on Sunday by her older brother. The bullet which was a 22 caliber, started in on one side of the neck and came out on the opposite side under the ear, and the most peculiar thing in connection with it is that there are at present no indications of serious consequences. The girl was brought to town and Dr. Wood dressed the wound. It is supposed the boy did not know the gun was loaded, and he was playing shoot and it turned out a reality.

A severe storm visited this city on Wednesday and during the storm a bolt of lightning killed a number of head of stock for Joe Punning and another struck the house here occupied by N. Arutz, tearing up beds, walls, and committing other rash acts. It also struck one of Mr. Arutz' boys tearing or burning most of the clothes off his body and burning him terribly. It was by far the hardest rain during 1902.

Otto Wipperman, son of Dist. Attorney Wipperman, was in the city Saturday and called at the Pilot office. Otto spent a year as an officer in the Navy of the United States, and while on duty visited about every port of entry on the entire sea coast of the world. He was injured during one cruise and after coming back to the United States took his discharge.

MARSHFIELD.

[From the News.]

Dr. H. A. Lathrop, exalted ruler of Marshfield lodge No. 665 B. P. O. E. and delegate to the grand lodge, will leave next Tuesday to attend the Elks annual reunion and meeting of the Grand Lodge to be held at Salt Lake City on Aug. 12th to 14th. He will be joined in Chicago by E. L. Reese who expects to leave here Saturday evening to visit a few days in Milwaukee before taking the western trip. Returning they will visit Yellowstone Park and various other points of interest in the Rocky Mountains. Mrs. Lathrop will leave here about Aug. 12th and after visiting a few days in St. Paul will meet her husband and Mr. Reese at Climax after the Salt Lake meeting has been concluded and the trio will make the balance of the tour, including Yellowstone Park, together. They will be absent about twenty days.

E. L. Reese is in receipt of a letter from the New York Journal Co. requesting the name of a poor person suffering from consumption whom they agree to give the celebrated Dr. Hoff's treatment free until cured. This proposition is being made in cities throughout the country for the combined purpose, it is presumed, of testing the prescription and advertising the New York Journal. Fred Hamann, a consumptive, was sent to Vienna some time ago at the expense of that paper, and it is alleged was entirely cured by Dr. Hoff after a few months treatment. It will be a great boon to mankind if the treatment backed by the Journal proves efficacious in most cases. Mr. Reese has not sent in the desired name as yet and is open to suggestions.

The Wisconsin Telephone company is now engaged in building into Marshfield, and when finished the people will have access to the long distance telephone the same as at other towns. The people of the city fought the Bell people for a number of years and it was only by the Bell company making concessions that they succeeded in getting in.

The street fair committee has decided to hold the fair only three days instead of four, and the dates decided on are September 25, 26, and 27, the last three days of the week. It is thought that this change will give general satisfaction, and will also be a saving of one day's expense.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

—Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Johnson & Hill Co. & Wood County Drug Co.

NEW TELEPHONE FRANCHISE

Wanted to Stop the Small Boy from Celebrating.—Numerous Claims Against the City.

At the meeting of the common council on Tuesday evening a franchise was granted to the American Telephone and Telegraph company to run a line into this city for the purpose of operating a toll line. As explained by City Attorney Gaynor the American Telephone and Telegraph company is a company under the jurisdiction of the Bell people that is engaged in connecting up the large cities of the country with a system of long distance service which will be superior to that of the Wisconsin Telephone company by reason of more careful construction and the use of heavier wire.

Alderman Jackson made a partial report concerning the value of the land which Joseph Arpin wished to buy from the city to extend his recently purchased residence premises on the east side. Mr. Jackson stated that in his opinion $100 would be a fair price for the land. The matter was laid over until next meeting, when it was requested that there should be a written report made of the matter.

Mayor Wheelan, as one of the committee on the construction of the new bridge, reported that the plans and specifications for same had been completed and that he had notified some thirty construction companies and that the bids would be opened on the 12th of August. In connection with this matter it was also moved that the mayor go to Madison and arrange, if possible, to borrow the money from the state for the construction of the bridge.

An ordinance was introduced prohibiting the firing of any gun, pistol, cannon, fire cracker or torpedo within the city limits. This caused considerable discussion on both sides of the question. Mr. Wheelan thought that in view of the fact that the ordinance would cut off the small boy from celebrating the Fourth in anything like American style, it was too stringent. Others thought it was just what was wanted; that the boy should be suppressed, and were in favor of passing the ordinance just as it stood. One alderman was afraid the passage of the ordinance would prevent him hunting prairie chickens within the city limits, while another was afraid it would cut him off from the pleasure of shooting his neighbor's cat. Provided it chased his chickens. The matter was laid over until next meeting with the understanding that a new ordinance be drawn in the meantime with certain modifications.

City Physician Pomainville made a report on the condition of the city from a health standpoint. He stated that there were four houses on each side of the river under quarantine for scarlet fever, making a total of 16 or 17 cases of this disease within the city at this time. He stated that he had encountered some difficulty in having the quarantine regulations properly observed, owing to the fact that many of the cases were so light that often a physician was not called and the case never came to the notice of the health officer, while it served to spread the disease just the same. He was instructed to employ the city police to assist him in enforcing the quarantine.

The doctor also made a report on the water that he had had analyzed. That from the fish pond showed up fairly good from a bacteriological standpoint, but the chemical test was not satisfactory. The spring water that he sent has been examined for bacteria and found to be first class, much better than the pond water, but the chemical analysis has not been made so could not be reported upon.

Joseph Cohen then addressed the council on the matter of constructing the stone wall between the Herschleb and Kromer places, and after explaining the situation and cost of same, the council voted the sum of $200 toward constructing the wall. The cost of the part for the city will be between $300 and $400.

Mary Wendlund presented a claim against the city for $5,000 for injuries received at the crossing of the Central track and the road at the south side. Claims were also presented by Albert Saeger for $500, Annie Saeger for $500 and Emil Wendlund for $100, all four of the parties having been in the rig when the accident occurred. The parties claim damages because the approach to the viaduct was not properly protected by a railing. It is claimed, however, that the Wisconsin Central is responsible for the condition of the approaches to the viaduct.

Amelia Hahn also presented a bill for $1,000 for damages sustained by stepping onto a plow used by the contractors while laying the water mains.

Fred Schuman presented a bill for damages to the extent of $1,000 for damage sustained by reason of a defective sidewalk on Maple street on the west side.

SEVERELY INJURED.

Miss Garrison the Victim of Run-away Accident.

Miss Viola Garrison was one of the parties in a runaway at Thorp last Friday afternoon which resulted in the breaking of one of the bones of her right ankle and the spraining of the other ankle.

Miss Viola and her sister Caroline had gone to Thorp only a few days before to visit with friends, and these two ladies in company with Mrs. L. O. Garrison and Miss Susie McCutcheon were out riding on Friday afternoon when the tongue dropped from the neckyoke, which scared the horses so that they became unmanageable and ran away.

All four occupants were thrown from the carriage and although they were shaken up considerably, Miss Viola was the only one who suffered seriously. The accident occurred five miles from town and the only conveyance that could be found was an ordinary lumber wagon belonging to a farmer living near by. The ride to town was necessarily a painful one and not calculated to improve the condition of a broken limb.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garrison got word of the accident the same day and started for Thorp on Saturday morning. Upon their arrival they found everything possible had been done for their daughter and that she was resting as easily as could be expected under the circumstances. Mr. and Mrs. Garrison and Miss Viola returned to this city on Monday afternoon and although the young lady will be laid up some time, no permanent inconvenience is anticipated.

GRAND RAPIDS WINS.

Nekoosa Beaten by a Score of Nine to Eight.

Sunday was a bad day for the Sulphite ball team of Nekoosa for they went down in defeat before the Grand Rapids nine by just one score, although they made a gallant fight for the victory.

It looked just a trifle scary for the home boys for a time for they failed to score until the sixth inning, while in the meantime the Nekoosa had piled up four runs and it looked as if they were going to keep it up. In the sixth, however, Grand Rapids made four runs and tied the score, which infused them with new life, and in the seventh they made three more, giving them a safe lead if nothing unforeseen happened. They held their advantage until the end and finished up on top of the heap.

The Grand Rapids team was composed of Petzold, Bancelin, McCamley, Weber, Mulroy, Differt, Glass, Bassett and Akey.

Caught a Bass

Guy T. Dutcher, who spent a part of last summer in this city, caught a bass over at Kalamazoo last Friday that almost equals in weight anything that our local fishermen are able to tell about. The fish weighed seven pounds and two ounces.

The largest small mouth black bass ever caught in the waters of Michigan and perhaps in the United States, is the record catch of G. T. Dutcher at Lake View this morning. It weighed seven pounds and two ounces.

Mr. Dutcher says of his catch: "I was casting on the west shore when all of a sudden something began to run away with the boat. I concluded it was about time to do something. I began to wind up my reel. I had a fierce struggle for 15 minutes, when I landed the monster and it nearly took my breath away. I think I will get one of the Shakespeare reels for the largest bass caught in the United States."

The question of the size to which black bass grow has been a mooted one among fishermen for many years. A New York sporting publication offers $1,000 for any small mouth bass weighing more than seven pounds and Mr. Dutcher will be entitled to this prize, as the bass he caught tipped the beam at seven pounds two ounces.

Will Shakespeare said: "There has been a great deal of discussion in regard to the size of bass. I am certain that the Lake View bass is a small mouthed one, and Mr. Dutcher will undoubtedly get the prize offered by me for catching the largest specimen of that variety." Lake View will undoubtedly be sought by Kalamazoo fishermen for the remainder of the season. Mr. Dutcher's catch will be on exhibition at Locher's sporting goods house this evening.

State Fair Attractions.

Among the special attractions at the next State Fair, in Milwaukee, Sept. 8—12, will be a genuine head-end collision between two standard railroad engines, to be driven at the time of contact, at a rate of speed, of not less than thirty miles an hour.

The engines will be manned by old engineers, respectively of the C. & N. W. and C. M. & St. Paul railroads. The act will take place in the infield, in front of the grand stand, in full view of spectators, but at a safe distance from them.

A specially interesting program will be arranged for each day.

A GHASTLY FIND.

BABE'S BODY FLOATING IN RIVER

Development Show It Was Thrown There by the Father.—Other Facts of the Case.

The people of this city were startled on Saturday morning when it was reported that the body of an infant had been found floating in the river. The report was easy to verify as all who wished could see the object lying in the shallow water at the west end of the bridge.

The authorities were quickly notified and City Physician Pomainville hurried to the scene and procuring a boat removed the unsightly object.

A coroner's jury was impaneled by Justice Brown, which viewed the remains. They found the body to be that of a newly born infant, with the placenta still attached to the body. Decomposition had started, indicating that the infant had been dead for some time, although it could not be told exactly how long. This was about all that could be told at the time and in view of the meagre details an adjournment was taken by the jury until one o'clock on Monday.

During Saturday morning the investigations set on foot indicated that the child might be that of Joseph Lebrack and his wife who live on the west side. An officer went to the home of the couple and meeting Lebrack and talking him with having thrown the body into the river, he admitted that it was so. and accompanied the officer to Justice Brown's court.

Here the story he told was to the effect that his wife had been delivered of a child, a girl baby, on Thursday afternoon. That the child was dead when born. That a neighbor woman had put the child into a shoe box in order that it might be buried, and that he had gone to a livery stable to secure a rig that he might take the body to one of the cemeteries and bury it.

He stated that a neighbor boy had promised to accompany him to the cemetery, but that when the time came the boy did not show up. That he had driven as far as the west end of the bridge when his heart failed him and he turned about and drove onto a side street where he tied the horse, and taking the box went to the west end of the bridge and passing along the walk beside the brick block had dropped the box into the water and left, paying no further attention to it.

Lebrack was held as a witness before the coroner's jury which met again Monday afternoon. Here his testimony was substantially the same as given on Saturday.

Among the other witnesses that were examined were Dr. Humphrey, who had visited the woman after her sickness, Mrs. Peyrusse, who had assisted her to some extent, Joseph Peyrusse and City Physician Pomainville. While some revolting details were elicited there was nothing developed that would indicate that there had been any crime committed.

After listening to all the testimony the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the child had been born dead and Lebrack was discharged from custody. Mr. and Mrs. Lebrack came to this city from Nekoosa last June and he testified that they were married last November. He has been employed for some time past in working on the waterworks ditching about the city and stated during the inquest that he was in destitute circumstances.

Surprised their Comrade.—On Sunday Louis Wakely, who resides about ten miles south of the city in the town of Saratoga, was the victim of a surprise party which was a very enjoyable affair for those who attended. Mr. Wakely was a member of company G, 12th Wisconsin during the civil war and his 37th birthday fell on the 30th of July, and in order to properly celebrate the event Mrs. Wakely notified a number of his comrades that she would have things all ready for a time on Sunday last.

The boys responded to the call and Mr. Wakely was taken so completely by surprise that he surrendered without a struggle. A very pleasant day was spent, and Mrs. Wakely sat the visitors down to a dinner that was worth going a long way to partake of. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Lyua, W. H. Getts, M. S. Pratt, D. C. Bailey, J. L. Cotey, W. H. Brown, Sam Parker, A. Eberhard, S. Ward, E. A. Tennant, David Kammerman, T. B. Burr, E. H. Tichnor, J. B. Grignon and Chas. Christenson. The visitors presented Mr. Wakely with a nice easy chair and departed for home wishing that their comrade might enjoy many more birthdays of health and happiness.

Gun Club Scores.

The Grand Rapids Gun club held four events at their shooting grounds Sunday afternoon, the following being the scores: First event, 25 birds, L. M. Nash 19, J. E. Thomas 14, F. Boles 21, W. G. Scott 18, W. A. Drumb 22, Second event, 25 birds, L. M. Nash 19, J. E. Thomas 14, F. Boles 18, W. G. Scott 20, W. A. Drumb 23, F. Mosher 13. Third event, 5 pairs of doubles, L. M. Nash 5, J. E. Thomas 1, F. Boles 5, W. G. Scott 7, W. A. Drumb 5, F. Mosher 9. Fourth event, 15 birds, L. M. Nash 9, J. E. Thomas 9, F. Boles 12, W. G. Scott 12, W. A. Drumb 12, F. Mosher 12. A strictly amateur event of 10 birds was then held between Chas. Dixon, Charles Boles and W. H. Barnes. Dixon was first, Boles second with Mr. Barnes a close third. It is expected that a match will be held between Plover and Grand Rapids next Sunday.

A Poor Job.—Last Friday a young lady hired a wheel from a young Krieger, the bicycle man, and after using the machine she went to one of our local second hand dealers and tried to sell the wheel for five dollars. The wheel looked to be too good for the price but the second hand man had the wheel left at his place and notified the police, and as a consequence Mr. Krieger got his property back. The young lady has not showed up for her five dollars as yet. Any person who is such a bungler as this at crookedness had better rely on honest work for their money, as they will be able to stay out of jail longer.

High Priced Oats.—Z. Nissenbaum was arrested on Thursday last for having stolen a bag of oats from the Spafford & Cole store on the east side and when brought before Justice Brown he paid a fine of $5 and costs for his misdemeanor. It seems that he drove up to the warehouse alongside the store and deliberately loaded off the oats and started to drive off when he was discovered. Oats are pretty high just now, but it doesn't pay to get caught stealing them just the same.

Discharged from Custody.—Elmer Grignon was before Justice Getts on Thursday charged with assault and battery, the complaining witness being M. B. Armstrong. The men were employed near Babcock by the wire grass company. Grignon was charged with hitting Armstrong over the eye with his fist, but as it was discovered by the testimony that Armstrong had used some pretty strong language to Grignon the jury found him not guilty and he was discharged.

Boy Run Over.—Willie Wolf, aged five years, was playing on the street in front of Steinberg's second hand store on Saturday when he was struck by a passing vehicle and run over. A physician dressed his wounds and found that no bones were broken and the boy is now nearly well again. Harry Story, who was crying the rig, was arrested for careless driving and fined $5 and costs, amounting to $11.71, which he paid.

Stole Some Clothes.—A domestic who was employed at the Witter house was brought before Justice Brown on Wednesday last on a charge of larceny. Some wearing apparel had been missed from the room of a guest and the evidence pointed to the girl. She pleaded guilty and the judge made it $10 and costs, which was paid and the prisoner discharged from custody.

Excursion to Oshkosh.—Next Sunday, August 10th, the Northwestern railway will run an excursion to Oshkosh and return. Train leaves here at 7.23 in the morning and arrives at Oshkosh at 11:45. Returning leaves Oshkosh at 6:45 p. m. Fare for round trip $1.75. This will give people who would like a trip over the new road a chance to do so at a very low rate.

Building New House.—James Chamberlain has commenced on the erection of a new house on his lots on the west side. The structure will be 34x46 and two and one half stories high and fitted with all modern conveniences, such as electric lights, furnace, water, etc. Tony Billmeyer has charge of the construction.

Institute Closed.—The institute for teachers which was held at Howe High school during the past three weeks closed on Friday. The examination for teachers was held on Saturday, there being fifty in attendance. Superintendent Leu went to Marshfield on Monday to hold the examinations there.

A Good Lecture.—The lecture on Thursday evening by Miss Belle Kearney at the opera house was largely attended and those who went heard a very entertaining talk on the temperance question. Miss Kearney is a most accomplished speaker and her method of delivering is most engaging.

Will Hold Picnic.—The members of the German Lutheran church will hold a picnic near their church on the west side on Sunday next. Refreshments and hot dinner and supper will be served, as well as all kinds of games. A general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

Akins-Siebling.—Geo. Akins and Miss Delia Siebling of Wausau were married on Tuesday last at Oak Park, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Akins arrived in this city on Thursday and will make their home here. The Tribune extends the heartiest of congratulations.

Club Shoot Sunday.—It is possible that the Marshfield gun club will be down on Sunday to hold a competitive shoot with our team, although it is not certain at this writing. It is possible that the Plover gun club may be over the same day.

Advertisers Coming.—The Seventh Day Adventists will hold their annual camp meeting here again this season, the affair commencing on Thursday, August 14th and ending on the 25th. The camp will be held at the fair grounds this year.

Lost Some Jewelry.—A sneak thief entered the home of George Grignon on Saturday night and stole several diamond rings belonging to Mrs. Grignon. Up to this writing the identity of the thief has not been discovered.

GIRL WRECKS A SALOON.

A Follower of Mrs. Nation Makes Things Fly at Racine.

TO MARRY BARTENDER

Woman Falls in Love with Liquor Man and Forces Him Out of the Saloon Business.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Because he fell in love with a disciple of Carrie Nation a saloon keeper had his place wrecked by an angry woman armed with an axe.

The woman had continually asked the saloonkeeper to give up his business and go into some other kind of work. She stated that she would never become his wife until he granted her request. Yesterday he refused her request and told her that in time she could get used to having her husband in the liquor business.

Loved a Saloonkeeper.

Now the follower of Mrs. Nation really loved the saloonkeeper and wanted to become his wife, but she has her ideas of what is right and wrong and she felt that keeping a saloon was a sin against heaven and earth. When she found that her lover was determined to remain a saloonkeeper she made up her mind to act.

Last evening she went to the saloon armed with an axe and made things fly. Her lover stood behind the bar and never offered a word of remonstrance while the little woman chopped his property to pieces. She whacked and whacked until the furniture and glass were completely ruined and then turned to leave the place. Her lover ran to her side and told her that he loved her much better than he did his saloon and if she would marry him he would never go back into the liquor business. They left the wrecked saloon together.

Milton Disgusted by Mrs. Nation.

Milton, Wis., Aug. 2.—Carrie Nation, the Kansas joint smasher, spoke here yesterday before a large audience, despite the fact that only a three hour notice was given of the meeting. She gave one of her usual diatribes against all parties and people who do not want to agree with her peculiar views, but when she called President Roosevelt "A Dutch beer guzzler" a portion of her audience left in disgust. At the conclusion of her so-called address she disposed of a large number of hatchets among her hearers.

Scores Bartender and Gets Beer.

Watertown, Wis., Aug. 2.—Carrie Nation arrived in town this afternoon and lectured to a large crowd at Turner Opera house last night. VILLAGE DEPOPULATED.

SPINNING WHEEL.

JOHN'S POEM ON LIGHTNING.
One time a lightning came down from the sky, ten miles or more and said "I think I'll make a strike where I am struck before."
an' then the lightning hit a track—a streetcar track it was—and went a hummin' up the rail, which soon began to buzz.
But when that lightning reached the place where all the cars turn round, it tried to stop off the rail and get into the ground.
but, no sir! that trick wouldn't work—
The track it flew from down, and so he started back again—
but seven miles to town.
he found it was the same thing there,
and then he split and cried:
"But lightning, you can't do that work,
though he tried hard to hide;
they've named him Electricity,
they've got him in the hall, and I'll bet you he's sorry that he ever struck that rail!"
—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

The following anecdote is from "The Biography of a Prairie Girl," in the Century. The writer, Eleanor Gates, has been describing the differences of opinion in a Dakota farmer's household as to the choice of a name for a child—differences which have delayed the christening for several months, and which the army chaplain had made the subject of his evening prayer on his visit to the farm.

When the chaplain stopped on his return trip, he found that the christening was still agitating the farm house, the big brothers having formed a triple alliance in favor of Elizabeth, while the little girl's mother was adhering more warmly than ever to Victoria. So he spent the evening in renewed argument and prayer, and offered Catherine as a compromise. But the little girl's mother attached no importance to his suggestion, knowing that Catherine was the name of his wife.

Before starting for the reservation in the morning, as he sat upon his pony with the family in a circle about him, he communicated a notable piece of news. Some time during June of the coming year the good bishop, who was greatly beloved by the Indians, would visit the post to marry the general's daughter to the major. The wedding would take place in the sod church, and would be followed by a sermon.

"And then," added the chaplain, "could come the baptism."
The little girl's mother was delighted with the idea, and decided on the spot to delay the baptism until June. The administering of the rite by the good bishop would give it a certain pomp, while his presence would insure the attendance of every woman on the plains, and the robe and the shoes would receive due parade and admiration.

The chaplain, satisfied at having accomplished even so little for peace, cantered off, the family looking after him. But when he reached the reservation road he came to a sudden halt, wheeled sharply, and raised his hands to his face to make a funnel of them. All fell into silence and listened for his parting admonition.

"Make it Catherine!" he shouted, and cantered on.

"Bankruptcy stares me in the face!" he groaned.

"And there is no hope!" asked the sympathetic friend.

"Just one," replied the unfortunate man, "and yet my father often told me never to sacrifice the roof above my head. But this is the bitter end. I am going out to mortgage my Panama hat!"

SOUTH AFRICA TO BE MADE A GREAT COLONY.

Advices from Geneva, Switzerland, say that there is a constant stream of travelers from Central and Eastern European commercial and industrial centers passing through that city on their way to South Africa. The majority of these travelers are said to be representatives of large firms sent out to report on the business prospects of Cape Colony, the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony. In Switzerland itself the declaration of peace between the Boers and the British is said to have brought about unprecedented commercial activity, one of the principal manufacturers of watches saying that, in contrast to the absolute stagnation of his business a couple of months ago, he was now utterly unable to meet the orders coming to him from England and the British Colonies.

cheerily. "You'll be out of the wet, and can have a seat while you're waiting for it to clear."

"No, thank you," said the Celt, emphatically. "Orrill not go into the house any more."

"Well, that's rather harsh," answered the clergyman. "When our Lord was on earth, did He not go among His enemies?"

"Yes—he did that," assented the Celt with growing warmth, "and yet didn't do a thing to him, ayther?" Philadelphia Times.

The Beauty of It—"I saw old Skrooge admiring the sunset yesterday. I didn't think there was that much sentiment in him."

"He told me afterward that the sun looked for all the world like a twenty-dollar goldpiece." Philadelphia Press.

It seems as if the name of frugality had been reached by a French officer who explained, with many appropriate gestures, his system of sustaining life on a pension of five francs a week.

"It is simple, verree, verree simple," he said to the friend who had expressed amazement at his feat. "Sunday I go to the house of a good friend, and there I dine so extraordinarily, and eat so verree much, zat I need no more till Wednesday."

"On zat day I have at my restaurant one large, verree large dish of tripe and some onion. I aponer zey tripe, yes, and zey onion also, and together zey make me so seek as I have no more appetite till Sunday. You see, it is verree simple."

Benevolent Old Gentleman (pointing a moral to village school children)—Now, why do I take all the trouble to leave my house and come over here and speak to you thus? Can any boy tell me? Bright Child (happily)—Please, sir, it's because ye like to hear yerself talk.—Tit-bits.

Capt. Groome of the City Troop once rode from Galveston, Texas, to New York City on the Mallory line steamer Denver under the experienced and skillful but gruff and brusque Capt. Sam Risk. Several slight mishaps had put Risk into a very bad temper, which was not mellowed when they ran into a dense fog off Cape Hatteras. One of the passengers who had been gazing considerably during the voyage ran up to Risk and exclaimed:

"Oh! Captain! Isn't this an awful fog? Is it always as bad as this out here?"

"How should I know?" snorted the old skipper. "I don't live here." Philadelphia Times.

"Bret Williams wuz alias a prayin' fer de angels ter come fer him, but w'en he learn a knowin' at de de, on der tel him hin wuz de angels, he say fer de angels ter go long what dey come from, kase he so black he 'traid he'd smut dey wings." Atlanta Constitution.

An engaged young gentleman got rather neatly out of a little scrape with his intended.

Married Last April.

Dr. R. W. Buttruff and Miss Byrdie Peeso, were married at Ironwood, Mich., last April. Their friends have surmised such to be the case since Doc's mysterious trip up to Ashland at that time, but no one seemed willing to confirm the suspicion, hence we could only hint at what we believed to be the truth.

The Dr. and his bride are now in South Dakota, spending a few weeks in the vicinity of his homestead, after which they will return to Merrill to reside.

The bride a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Peeso, is well known here from having been a resident of Merrill for the past three years or more until last spring when she went to Ashland with her mother. She is a worthy young lady.

The groom is a dentist by profession and a member of the firm Peeso & Buttruff, and is an energetic exemplary young man.—Merrill Star.

Moravian Church.

Next Sunday, August 10th, special services will be held in both Moravian churches, in commemoration of the transactions of August 13, 1727, the beginning of a new era for the Moravian church.

The Rev. J. Taylor Hamilton, D. D. Professor of the Moravian Theological Seminary at Bethlehem, Pa., will preach in the morning and evening, as follows:

At 10 a. m., at the German Moravian church, after the service the celebration of the Holy Communion. Both services are in German.

At 7:45 p. m., Rev. Hamilton will preach in the English language at the Moravian Scandinavian church. All are cordially invited to attend.

John Biringger Dead.

John Sebastian Biringger, who spent several years of his life in this city, died at Merrill on Saturday, August 2, from the effects of a tumor in his stomach. He was 69 years of age. The funeral was held in this city on Tuesday from the Catholic church.

Reverend Van Kooosmalen officiating. Besides his wife, he leaves seven children, they being Mrs. P. H. Jacobus of Marshfield, Mrs. J. N. West of Mountain View, Canada, Geo. Biringger of Chicago, John Biringger of Merrill, Mrs. Wm. Meinecke of Janesville, Mrs. Wm. Compton and Mrs. Milton Mosher of this city. All of his children were present at the funeral except Mrs. J. F. West and George Biringger. Mr. Biringger was born in Scholau, Germany, and came to America forty years ago. Being satisfied with the country he went back to Germany and got his wife and family and brought them to this country and located at Stevens Point. He came to Grand Rapids in 1887.

Last year he went back to Germany to visit his relatives, having three sisters and a brother still living there. Upon returning here he went to reside with his son John at Merrill, where he resided until his death. He was first taken sick while in Germany and has been more or less ill since then until his death.

Is it any wonder our courts are sometimes looked upon with suspicion, when such blots upon the name of justice are being enacted every day? The hated injunction is continuing in its dastardly work and is growing bolder and more cruel every day. But last week Judge Jackson, of Parkersburg, West Virginia, issued an injunction restraining striking miners from holding meetings or appealing to non-union miners to quit the employ of the mine owners. For violating this ban on free speech several miners were imprisoned. And now comes Judge Keller, of Charleston, West Virginia, with an order restraining friends of union labor from supplying the striking coal miners with food or other supplies, even though they be starving. Violation of this injunction is punishable by imprisonment and fine. The apparent object of this order is to starve the striking miners into submission. With the court in league with the coal corporations the miners would be reduced to a condition of serfdom. And yet they tell us the courts are sacred and above suspicion of wrong doing or error.

MARRIED BUT NOT MATED

By "RITA"

CHAPTER XXIV.

"And now, my dear fellow," said Col. Dunbar to his friend some days after these events, "there's no reason why you two good people shouldn't be happy at last. Mrs. Marsden is terribly ill and shaken after all she has undergone, but I think the best medicine she can have is the medicine you bring with your own presence. How is it you have not been near her since the day of her acquittal?"

Ivor was sitting by the table in his dreary lodgings. Col. Dunbar had come to pay him a farewell visit, for on the morrow he and his wife and Beryl Marsden were to leave London for the Abbey, and his purpose in coming to see Ivor had been to persuade him to join them at Vaux the following week.

"Dunbar," he said, hoarsely, "do you forget who I am—a nameless, homeless, fortuneless man, with nothing in all this wide world to call his own?"

"I beg your pardon," interposed Col. Dunbar, hastily. "Nothing? Do you call a woman's pure trust and love nothing? Do you call friendship nothing? Do you call life, health, strength nothing? Come, come, Ivor, be a sensible man. You have suffered a great deal, and so has she. Don't go running your head against a stone wall of obstinacy and pride. You lost the Court, by an accident; Beryl Marsden gained it in like manner. As for the flaw in your birthright, that is no fault of yours, nor do I think that Beryl Marsden is the woman to care for it. But you should think twice before you break her heart. Surely she has borne enough?"

Ivor bent his head on his hands and groaned aloud.

"Say you will come," persisted Col. Dunbar.

Ivor shook his head.

"I have kept my word—I have answered her," he said, slowly. "But what right have I to trouble her any longer? She is free now; she may be happy in time. I cannot bring my shamed life across her path again."

"Then you will excuse my plain speaking, but you are a fool!" said Col. Dunbar, rising to his feet in irrepressible indignation. "Good heavens, man! what is the use of splitting straws in this fashion? You are in love with each other; you have fought the hardest battle that is given men and women to fight in this world, and have come out of it nobly, and now you willfully turn your back on happiness."

"You—you can't understand," muttered Ivor.

"No, I'm glad to say I can't," said the Colonel, ironically. "and what's more, I don't wish to. I'm disappointed in you, Ivor. I really am. I thought you were a sensible man, and not the sort of fellow one reads of in novels and romances—women's novels. I should say—upsetting everything by some confounded bosh about principles and honor being worth all the love and happiness standing ready at their hand. Madge will never forgive you, as for Beryl—"

"Has she—has she spoken about me?" asked Ivor, faintly.

"No-o, I believe not," answered Col. Dunbar, reddening. "But all the same, Madge says she's dying for a word from you, and Madge knows—she's sharp enough."

"When she needs me, or wishes for me, I will come to her," said Ivor, slowly. "But I cannot force myself upon her notice now, and she—she would only despise me if I did."

"Well, I wash my hands of the whole affair," said Col. Dunbar, penitently. "If you choose to make yourself voluntarily miserable, that's your affair. I suppose you'll be going out to Mexico again, or Afghanistan, or Egypt, and doing your utmost to jeopardize your life by way of breaking her heart, and proving your love. That's about your sort, isn't it?"

Ivor smiled sadly. "Heaven knows I would not add to her unhappiness by word or deed," he said, gravely; "but in my place, Dunbar, you would see as I do, that to put forward any past claim upon her memory now would be little short of insult."

"Then you won't come?"

It was such a white face, and such a sad face, that looked up at Cosmo Dunbar in that moment, that it shook his self-control to its very center, showing him in one brief second what unexplained depths of agony might lurk in that tried and sorrowing soul of his friend.

"Ivor, my dear fellow, don't look like that—don't sacrifice yourself for a shadow!" he pleaded again.

But Ivor only shook his head, and Col. Dunbar went out from his presence with a clouded brow and a very heavy heart.

"I must talk it over with Madge," he said. "I fear I've only made matters worse."

It was two days later—Ivor was sitting in the same room when a cab drew up to his lodgings, and a lady alighted and was ushered into his presence—the lady was Madge Dunbar.

He started to his feet when he saw her; but the question he would have put was stayed on his lips by something he saw in her face.

"No," she said, answering that unspoken demand, "we are not at Vaux. We could not go. Beryl is very ill."

His face blanched. The hand pressed on the table by which he leaned trembled exceedingly.

"Beryl?" he said. "Not dangerously?"

"Yes," answered Madge, abruptly; "otherwise I should not be here. She is just fading away, day by day she gets weaker and worse. Nothing rouses her. Nothing interests her! It is heart-breaking to see her. I thought I would come and tell you. I—I know all that has been between you, and I know that her love for you is costing her her life. I call it cruel—unnatural—to behave as you are doing. Not once have you sent word or sign since that day in the prison. And the odium of that terrible time is still upon her, she can never forget it, and she thinks her name is blasted forever. Nothing will ever induce her to go to Grant-ham Court or touch the money, and I suppose when she dies the place will be

"Oh, how glad I am!" she cried. "But Ivor, why did you not tell me before? Why did you still pretend the Court was mine?"

"I felt I could not bear to live there without you," he said gently, "and so I placed my fate in your hands. It is worth more than fame or fortune, Beryl, to know that only for his own sake do you love 'My Lord Concel'."

"Ah," she cried with the old, bright, fleeting blush, "don't remind me of that. It was so foolish, so untrue, so—"

(The end.)

FAMOUS LONDON TAVERN TO GO

Simpson's Old Restaurant to Be Replaced by a Modern Structure.

Simpson's a famous eating place of London, that has been in existence since 1828, is doomed to extinction. For years it has been the resort of literary and musical celebrities who enjoyed the old-fashioned English dinner served in quaint style.

It is said that the restaurant is to be rebuilt with many improvements, but old-timers fear that the name is all that will remain. Hosts of memories are connected with this old inn, and the reminiscences of its head waiter, Flowerdew, would prove a most interesting historical record of London during the last quarter of a century.

Simpson's was on the Strand and was old-fashioned in all its fittings and furnishings. There were great round mahogany tables, roomy chairs upholstered in horsehair, and a floor of colored tiles, with growing trees in tubs. Signs on the wall announced that a dinner "from the joint" would be served for 2s 6d and a fish dinner for 2s 9d, the latter a very popular meal with the public, being served from noon until 8:30 o'clock.

One side of the eating room was divided off into little private boxes, curtained from brass rods. A huge dumb waiter occupied the center of the room and was always piled high with massive old glassware and silver. On the walls were painted panels of fish and game, grown dim with age. The bar opened into this room from a great window, and two high candelabra flanked it on either side as though it were an altar.

The old custom of serving the roasts was always preserved at Simpson's. Tables on wheels bearing great joints of beef and mutton on silver covers were pushed about from customer to customer, the carvers, dressed in white, cutting off the particular slices designated by the diner.

A woman's dining room was up stairs, and here the picturesque Flowerdew presided. Rooms for playing chess were on the upper floors, while the "Knights of the Round Table" had a club room there with a collection of playbills and prints. Each week they dined in old-fashioned English style from the historic mahogany tables.

LARGER FAMILIES.

A Warning to American Women from Brigham Young's Daughter.

Mrs. Susan Young Gates, of Utah, speaking before the National Council of Women in Carroll Institute, Washington, made some very pertinent remarks on this subject, although under a different heading. It is a national question, and one which demands attention from every intelligent woman.

It is a matter of regret that the descendants of the old Pilgrim Fathers are by no means living up to the example set by their forefathers. The tendency nowadays is for the families of native-born Americans to be noticeably small, whereas the families of foreigners are conspicuously large. In some parts of rural New England the schools are half empty, and among the pupils the children of foreigners predominate so largely as to form a serious menace to American nationality.

The old Knickerbocker families of New York were celebrated for their vigor and intelligence, and wherever these are found they are leaders now. But, alas! how few are to be found! Large families are now sneered at, and young girls are taught before marriage that a large family is a burden and care not only to their parents, but to the country at large.

The history of womanhood, as modern as you may find it, demonstrates that large families are productive of health, equality and relatively ideal conditions, both mentally, morally and physically. We talk of leaving our impress upon humanity. Let us leave ourselves to our posterity.

The remedy lies in the removal of the cause. Let wise counsel be given by mothers to their daughters, teaching them that it is a woman's first duty to bear children who will be a pride and a joy to her, and cause her to be held in high honor and respect.

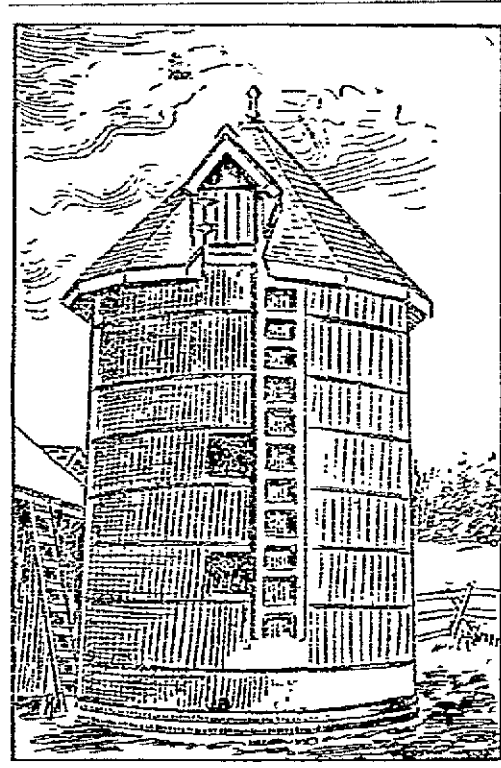

The Seagull a Fish Pirate.

The growing sentiment for the protection of bird life, writes a correspondent, should not be endangered by wrong direction. The appeal for the sea gull, for instance, is one that must ultimately fail for sound reasons. Beautiful as he is, and attractive as his evolutions are about the bridges, he is a noted fish pirate, and when the long delayed but inevitable legislation comes for the scientific protection of our coast fishing industry the gull will be marked as an enemy. At a certain stage of the life of the turbot, for instance, the baby fish floats helplessly on the surface of the water, and a single gull is quite capable of disposing of a hundred turbot in a day. Even an alderman who could do such a thing would be legislated out of existence—much more a sea gull—and the woman who wears an opera cloak made of the pure slate and white wings is helping to keep down the price of fish.—London Chronicle.

FARM AND GARDEN

Circular Form of Silo.

The consensus of opinion of those who have studied the silo problem indicates that the circular form is preferable. There are, however, many square and rectangular silos in successful operation. Especially is this the case with those having rounded corners. Where great strength and large capacity are demanded the frame circular silo will best meet the requirements. This form of silo can be made quite durable by plastering the inside with cement. The circular stave silo, owing to its simplicity and economical construction, seems to fully meet the requirements of the farmer. With the form of silo properly erected the waste of silage is reduced to the minimum.

CIRCULAR SILO.

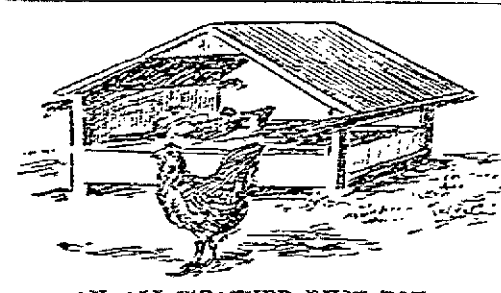

saved out doors may be ranged one above the other, with a stationary ladder placed alongside running to the top of the silo, as shown in the cut.

When the silo is built on the outside of the barn, a roof is needed. This may be simply a shed roof constructed with plank, or a neat, inexpensive shingle roof, as shown in the cut.

A Suitable Dust Bath.

All chickens seem to thoroughly enjoy a dust bath, and its use undoubtedly is a benefit to their plumage, besides ridding them of lice. If the plumage is to be kept clean and bright, especially on birds intended for exhibition purposes or of white varieties, it is essential that the dusting place be kept absolutely dry, as otherwise it will soil the plumage and the fine bird on which you may pride yourself will look very dingy.

The roofed box in the sketch will give an idea of how birds may be provided with a dry dust bath in nearly all kinds of weather. Cloths may be tacked across the top ends, with hooks at bottom for stormy weather, if the box is in a field. Some poultry raisers allow their fowls the liberty of the sheds where the farm machinery is housed and here they get a fine dusting in all sorts of weather, but if the birds roost on them it does not improve their looks nor the working of the farm implements. Better keep them out, and assign them quarters more fitting. The cost of cleaning machinery of hen manure on some farms would build palatial abodes for the hens and make them a profitable part of the farm.—John G. Knott, in Farm and Home.

To Make Hens Lay.

When hens do not lay in summer, the fault may be due to overfeeding, owing to the abundance of insects, grass and seeds on the range or pasture. It is better to send such hens to market if they are over two years old, and depend upon the early hatched pullets as winter layers. All pullets that are to be retained should be kept in good growing condition, not fat, by allowing a variety of food, meat being much better than corn or wheat for all kinds of young poultry.

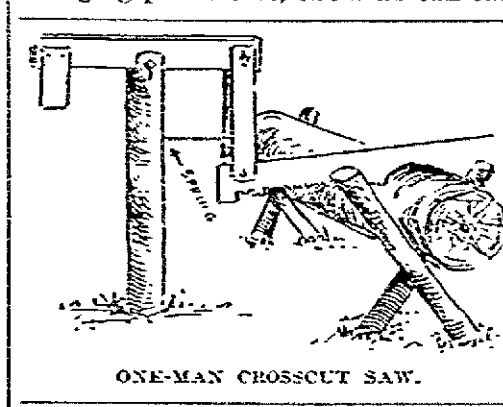

Feeding Grain to Steers.

Feeding grain to steers on grass is justified when pastures are short and where these cannot be supplemented with some kind of fodder. Where steers are partly warmed up with grain before being turned to grass, it may prove an excellent practice to continue feeding them about one peck per day. By following this practice the animals may be kept going from the first day. Such animals may be marketed earlier than those that are grass fed alone and invariably will command a little higher price. It is generally advisable to grind corn for grass fed steers. Animals on grass alone frequently lose weight during the first weeks after being turned out, so that the time required to make this up is entirely lost. When grain is fed it is a good plan to feed a little roughage, such as timothy or clover hay, during the first week after turning to grass in order to prevent scouring.—Iowa Homestead.

A One-Man Saw.

A cross-cut saw will get through a great deal more wood with a given amount of muscle than any other hand device. With this rocking walking beam attachment and its weighted and swinging pendulums, one man can easily manage the saw. The post, as shown in the cut, should be about eight feet high to admit of having a pendulum sufficiently long to give the required length of stroke. The weight on the outer pendulum should be just sufficient to prevent the saw from riding. The spring from main post to the saw should be strong enough to help the sawyer on the return stroke. A stout cord running over a pulley with a weight attached may take the place of the spring. A stiff wire with a hook in the lower end answers very well in place of the wooden pendulum shown in the cut. When it is adjusted just right the walking beam will see-saw easily, as it follows the motion of the saw.—John Jackson, in Agricultural Epitome.

ONE-MAN CROSSCUT SAW.

Aids to Whitewashing.

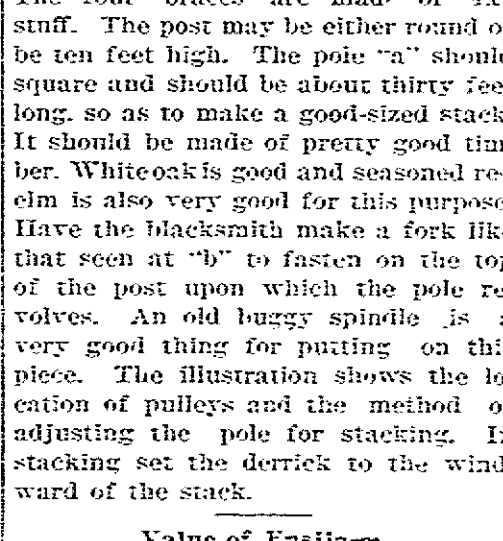

The use of the fruit-spraying pumps makes easy the task of whitewashing stables, henhouses and cellars, and it is much more effectual than the use of the brush, because by making the stream a little larger and more forcible, which most spraying nozzles admit of, a stream can be sent into cracks and crevices where the brush would not reach. It may not prove as penetrating or as powerful a disinfectant as the gas from burning sulphur and charcoal, but it takes next rank, and can be used where it might not be well to use the sulphuric acid gas, as in cellars under living rooms. If it is to be used as a disinfectant, or as an insect destroyer, the addition of a little carbolic acid or a little dissolved copperas to the whitewash may be an advantage, and we prefer the latter, at least in cow stables, because it emits no offensive odor. Let the lime be thoroughly slaked, and strained through a cloth, so that it may be thin enough to work well in the nozzle. And sides, ceilings, corners and floors can be well sprayed in one-fourth the time needed for the use of the brush. Applied during the hot weather, it does not take long to dry, and two coats can easily be given if one does not look thick enough when dried.—New England Homestead.

Handy Hay Derrick.

W. A. Clearweather, of Indiana, sends Iowa Homestead a sketch of a derrick which he has found very handy for building stacks out in the field.

The runners are made out of 2x12 stuff fourteen feet long, the center cross piece 3x8, and the outside cross pieces 2x8, all let in as shown in the illustration.

The four braces are made of 4x4 stuff. The post may be either round or be ten feet high. The pole "a" should square and should be about thirty feet long, so as to make a good-sized stack. It should be made of pretty good timber. White oak is good and seasoned red elm is also very good for this purpose. Have the blacksmith make a fork like that seen at "b" to fasten on the top of the post upon which the pole revolves. An old buggy spindle is a very good thing for putting on this piece. The illustration shows the location of pulleys and the method of adjusting the pole for stacking. In stacking set the derrick to the windward of the stack.

Value of Ensilage.

Ensilage is not only the cheapest of all cattle foods, but a supply in winter prevents a complete change from green to dry food. A change means less milk, unless some succulent food, such as ensilage of roots, is allowed in addition to hay and grain. Some cows fall off in milk when put on dry food and do not regain in yield until the next spring. Regulating the milk supply by regulating the food and its quality requires a study of both summer and winter conditions.

Feed Green Corn.

One of our best dairymen in an address before a farmers' institute said that during the summer, his pastures getting short and having no soiling crop, he commenced cutting off and feeding his milk cows his corn. He kept a close account and found it paid. This shows the importance of feeding well at all times if the flow of milk is to be maintained and that it can be done profitably and a good product obtained.

The most extensive cemetery is in the catacombs of Rome; over 6,000,000 human beings are there interred.

RUN AWAY FROM DANGER.

Inhabitants of Los Alamos Flee to Place of Safety.

MANY PANIC-STRICKEN.

Landslides in Surrounding Hills Do Great Damage—Oil Wells Appear to Have Escaped Injury.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Aug. 1.—Many of the inhabitants of the town of Los Alamos, which has been the center of seismic disturbances since last Sunday, have left for places outside of the earthquake region. The town of Los Alamos is situated about midway between Santa Ynez and Santa Maria in the long narrow valley of Los Alamos, fifteen miles from the coast. The Los Alamos valley is from one-half to one mile wide. The population of the valley is about 800. The damage thus far is limited to the ruin of plaster, the collapse of chimneys, the breaking of crockery and glassware, the falling of the walls of the Presbyterian Church and several stone buildings, and the demolishing of an old adobe building which was seriously damaged with the first quake on Sunday night. Not a building escaped some injury and it is considered miraculous that no one was hurt.

Fire Caused by Overturned Lamp.

Los Alamos, Cal., Aug. 1.—Although no more severe earthquake shocks have been experienced here since 7:30 last night, the people are panic-stricken. Dr. H. C. Bagby of Santa Maria, who was a guest at the home of D. P. Whitney, undoubtedly saved the business section of the town from a serious fire. When the earthquake occurred a lamp was upset and set fire to the place. Without a thought for his own safety Dr. Bagby rushed upstairs and found Mrs. Whitney sitting on the floor, the flames and smoking furniture all around her. Drawing her from her place of danger he beat out the fire with blankets and thus saved a life and a large portion of the business section.

Great Landslide.

Parties from Lompoc and outlying districts have reached Los Alamos with stories of havoc in the hills. A great landslide carrying down hundreds of tons of earth occurred near the Hoover ranch. The road from Lompoc was buried for fifty feet. Huge boulders were sent thundering down the valleys.

John R. Drum, a mountain farmer, reports a road-destroying landslide in Drum canyon. The face of the hills are changed with noises which Drum describes as the most terrific sounds he ever heard. The oil wells around the town of Los Alamos seem not to have suffered.

Since the beginning of the earthquake shocks the temperature has been most oppressive, as much heat apparently coming from the earth as from the sun which, for the most part of the time, has been shining brightly.

Due to Subterranean Gases.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 1.—John H. Conway, who has made a life study of the geology of this country, believes that the disturbances are in no way due to volcanic activity, but occasioned by local conditions. His theory is that the earthquakes are occasioned by subsidences caused by the action of the subterranean gases and oils in which the region is known to abound. It has been known for years that gas was being generated beneath the earth's surface in the vicinity of Los Alamos.

For many years there has been a small, active volcano on the Los Alamos side of the mountain which lies between that place and Santa Barbara. Smoke and steam constantly issue from various fissures along the summit of a plateau or shelf near the northern slope of the mountain. Viewed from the distance of the old stage road, these manifestations appear like small camp fires. They have never developed any alarming tendencies and have attracted very little direct investigation.

Flood Situation Improved.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 1.—No heavy rains fell in Texas yesterday and as a result the situation is vastly improved this morning. Traffic of all kinds is now being handled by Texas roads with perfect safety.

Many people spent the night in tree-tops around Quinlan Tuesday night and were rescued the following morning by boats brought from Greenville and Paris for that purpose. The water was still over the Texas Midland tracks at Quinlan last night, but no lives were lost there.

Waters are falling everywhere except in the extreme southern part of the state, where the flood is being augmented by small tributaries.

RAILROAD ASSESSMENT.

Companies Operating in Iowa Must Stand a Heavy Increase in the Amount of Their Taxes.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 1.—The executive council has increased the railroad assessment of Iowa $4,041,556, making a total of $51,112,814. The increase on the North-Western railroad is $1,100,954, that on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul is $900,842, and that on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy is $655,457.

The Burlington, the Chicago Great Western, the Rock Island, the Omaha & St. Louis and the Illinois Central all are increased, the amounts ranging from $225,000 to $300,000.

The assessment of the telegraph, telephone and express companies' property also shows a substantial increase.

The railroads alone will be obliged under the new assessment to pay in taxes approximately $12,124 more than last year. The state levy was fixed by the council at 3 1/2 mills.

DEFICIT FOR JULY.

Due to Repeal of War Taxes and Payment of War Claims of Several States.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 1.—There was a deficit of $7,498,308 for the month just ended, but this causes no alarm at the treasury because it was fully expected. The deficit is due to the repeal of the war revenue and the heavy disbursements made at the beginning of each fiscal year for interest charges and extraordinary disbursements to pay the war claims of several states. These claims alone amounted to more than $5,000,000 and accounts for nearly half the amount of the deficit. The receipts for the month were $49,305,693, and the disbursements $56,804,000.

It is estimated there will be a falling off of about $70,000,000 in the internal revenue receipts during the present year. With this tremendous reduction in receipts Uncle Sam will have no difficulty meeting his obligations, as he has on hand an available cash balance of $203,367,112. In addition to this there is in the treasury $1,905,000,000 in the gold reserve, and $541,965,080 in the trust fund.

Since I began taking Re-Go Tonic Laxative Syrup I have had none of these troubles. The Laxative effect is truly the most pleasant that I have ever experienced, mild but sure, without the gripping effect so common with such remedies. Re-Go is certainly a wonder. Sold by Sam Church, druggist."

PITTSVILLE.

[From the Pilot.]

A young daughter of John Raab was shot on Sunday by her older brother. The bullet which was a 22 caliber, started in on one side of the neck and came out on the opposite side under the ear, and the most peculiar thing in connection with it is that there are at present no indications of serious consequences. The girl was brought to town and Dr. Wood dressed the wound. It is supposed the boy did not know the gun was loaded, and he was playing shoot and it turned out a reality.

A severe storm visited this city on Wednesday and during the storm a bolt of lightning killed a number of head of stock for Joe Pinning and another struck the house here occupied by N. Aratz, tearing up beds, walls, and committing other rash acts. It also struck one of Mr. Aratz' boys tearing or burning most of the clothes off his body and burning him terribly. It was by far the hardest rain during 1902.

MARSHFIELD.

[From the News.]

Dr. H. A. Lathrop, exalted ruler of Marshfield lodge No. 665 B. E. O. E. and delegate to the grand lodge, will leave next Tuesday to attend the Elks annual reunion and meeting of the Grand Lodge to be held at Salt Lake City on Aug. 12th to 14th. He will be joined in Chicago by E. L. Reese who expects to leave here Saturday evening to visit a few days in Milwaukee before taking the western trip. Returning they will visit Yellowstone Park and various other points of interest in the Rocky Mountains. Mrs. Lathrop will leave here about Aug. 12th and after visiting a few days in St. Paul will meet her husband and Mr. Reese at Cinnabar after the Salt Lake meeting has been concluded and the trio will make the balance of the tour, including Yellowstone Park, together. They will be absent about twenty days.

E. L. Reese is in receipt of a letter from the New York Journal Co. requesting the name of a poor person suffering from consumption whom they agree to give the celebrated Dr. Hoff's treatment free until cured. This proposition is being made in cities throughout the country for the combined purpose, it is presumed, of testing the prescription and advertising the New York Journal. Fred Hammann, a consumptive, was sent to Vienna some time ago at the expense of that paper, and it is alleged was entirely cured by Dr. Hoff after a few months treatment. It will be a great boon to mankind if the treatment backed by the Journal proves efficacious in most cases. Mr. Reese has not sent in the desired name as yet and is open to suggestions.

The Wisconsin Telephone company is now engaged in building into Marshfield, and when finished the people will have access to the long distance telephone the same as at other towns. The street fair committee has decided to hold the fair only three days instead of four, and the dates decided on are September 25, 26, and 27, the last three days of the week. It is thought that this change will give general satisfaction, and will also be a saving of one day's expense.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by Johnson & Hill Co. & Wood County Drug Co.

W. L. Boyce and H. F. Vandrey will open marble works in this city in the near future. Mr. Boyce is a practical marble cutter and he will attend to the inside work while his partner attends to the selling of their product.
